In Brief

Police chief dead at 60

Clayton "Mickey" McLaughlin, Belleville chief of police, died early Saturday morning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ypsilanti of apparent heart complications.

He was 60 years of age.

Commenting on his death, Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson said, "Mickey was a stabilizing influence in Belleville. He will be hard to replace, not only in the police department, but in the overall operation of our city."

Six years ago, Chief McLaughlin was hospitalized for several weeks with fluid around his heart which doctors said was brought on by an arthritic condition.

He was a veteran police officer, having been chief for the last eight years and with the local department since 1940, nearly 40 years.

Cable TV Correction

The story appearing in last week's paper on cable television companies incorrectly stated that Omnicom of Michigan has been awarded a "franchise" in the City of Westland. It should be clarified that the Westland contract with Omnicom is not a "franchise" in the traditional cable TV sense.

Omnicom will build and operate Westland's system, but will not own it, as it does in other communities. The city will own the system, and is merely hiring Omnicom as builder, then will hire the company as manager of the system for a fee.

This municipal ownership of a cable television system is unique in the area.

In The Western Five communities, the cable company awarded the franchise will own the system privately, and pay the communities a franchise fee.

Central Business gets ready for annual sidewalk sales

"Romulus Days", Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19, will be highlighted by two days of bargain sidewalk sales by local merchants and will culminate in a street dance on the last day of the event.

Sponsored by the Romulus Central Business District Association, the annual sidewalk sales will be held on Goddard Road, between Shook and Sterling streets, in downtown Romulus.

Local merchants will be joined by city residents who will have a variety of wares, goods and antiques for sale to what sponsors hope will be a sizable outpouring of shoppers.

Food and drink, including beer, will be available for one and all. Children will be able to witness and take part in special entertainment activities.

The Romulus Rotary Club again will hold its annual chicken barbeque at Kennedy Park, near Five Points, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, July 19.

Cost of the barbeque dinner will be $3 and will include a half chicken, beans, cole slaw, potato chips, and a soft drink, coffee or tea.

Climax of the two-day Romulus Days will be a street dance beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday, July 19. Music for dancing will be provided by the "Michigan Countrymen".

Tickets for the Romulus Days chicken barbeque may be purchased from Rotary Club members or from downtown merchants.

County police services plan appears in jeopardy

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

A new plan recently agreed to by Wayne County and the city of Romulus for continuation of police services to the city by the Wayne County Sheriff's Dept. appears headed for trouble.

Last week, the county's Ways and Means Committee voted to recommend that layoff notices be sent to deputies assigned to Romulus if a new contract was not signed by July 10.

The committee's recommendation to the county Board of Commissioners also approved extended funding to pay deputies assigned to Romulus only to July 27. This action would permit a two-weeks layoff notice to deputies.

However, a more positive outlook was voiced Monday by Dennis Nystrom, Romulus' corporation counsel, who is representing the city in current contract negotiations.

"I fully expect we will have a new contract reasonably soon," he said. "I do not expect any layoff notices (for deputies) for at least one year."

Nystrom explained that the old contract between the city and county for police services remains in effect. That agreement, he said, provides for a one-year notice of termination for police services.

He said "significant differences" still exist between the city and county over bills submitted by the county for police services.

"This is the one big item that is holding up settlement of a new contract," said Nystrom.

Leito Durely, county public information officer, said Monday that the committee's recommendation must be approved by the county board before any layoff notices will be issued.

Monday also was the last day of a second 60-day extension granted by the county to Romulus for law enforcement services by deputies. The extensions had been given during the period between expiration of the old contract and the newly-agreed-upon Plan C, one of three options offered by Sheriff William Lucas.

Plan C calls for a flexible type operation that basically employs services of 25 police officers, nine less than the 32 in the old contract. The new plan will cost Romulus $143,000 per month, up slightly from costs under the old contract.

Romulus Treasurer confirmed Monday that the city has been paying the new monthly payments.

Recently approved by Romulus City Council, Plan C appeared to put an end to months of squabbling between the county and city. Disagreement centered on a new contract and how much money Romulus owed for additional charges imposed by the county to make up for higher deputy wages granted under new contracts.

"I look forward to working on such a vital and important project, particularly with people of the caliber selected for this council."

"I only hope that our efforts can, and will, make a difference in the future of small business in our state. We're going to try."

McMurray, president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, had similar comments about this appointment.

"It's a tremendous honor to be appointed to this council, it is much needed," he said. "There really is a need for representation of the small business person."

"This might help fill the gap, so we can all benefit from the free enterprise system."

It will be up to them and the other members of the council to plan the state conference, which will begin with local and regional caucuses. The conference itself will provide a forum for small business operators from across the state to tell state government what their businesses need to prosper and grow.

Other members appointed to the executive council by Milliken were Blanche Bekkering of Grand Blanc, Judson T. Bradford of Holland, Wallace J. Bronner of Frankenmuth, Lydia Demski of St. Joseph, Thomas J. Kuber of Menominee, Cable TV nears OK

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

The possibility of getting cable television for residents of five area communities is inching closer to realization.

Last week, the Western Five Community Conference Board voted 4-1 to recommend Omnicom of Plymouth as the firm that should be awarded a cable TV franchise for its five member communities.

A motion made by Donna Hall, sitting in for Van Buren Sup. Pat Cullin, who was out of the township on business, to recommend Comcast failed for lack of a second.

A motion by Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley to recommend Omnicom was seconded by Shirley Sulkey, who represented Sumpter Township Sup. Robert K. Demski. Voting for Omnicom were Oakley, Sulkey, Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson, and Huron Township Sup. Roy Raker. Hall voted against Omnicom.

Competition has been hot and heavy by Omnicom, United Cable of Englewood, Colo., and Comcast of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa. for a cable TV franchise to serve Belleville and Romulus and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron.

Western Five's recommendation came hours before a public meeting at Romulus City Hall where the same three cable TV companies and three others appeared in efforts to secure a franchise for the city of Romulus alone.

Henry Redman, Western Five director, was instructed to send letters to Omnicom and its five member communities informing them of the recommendation by the consortium.

Oakley made it clear that the action by Western Five was only a "non-binding" recommendation. He emphasized that final approval would be up to the township boards and city councils of the five communities.

On the Monday night before the public meeting in Romulus, Omnicom was approved by the Westland City Council as the cable TV company that would build and manage a cable TV system in that community. Omnicom, however, has not granted a cable TV franchise.

Under the approved agreement, Westland will own the cable TV system and pay for its installation. Omnicom and several other companies previously had competed for a franchise to build, operate and own a cable TV system for Westland.

Westland city officials had been undecided on whether to award a franchise for construction of the cable TV system or to build and own it themselves.

When a decision was made to build and own their own system, bids were advertised for cable TV firms that would and manage a system for that city. Omnicom was the only bidder.

At the Romulus public meeting, Omnicom, United and Comcast presented much of the same information they gave last week at another public hearing in Romulus. At that session, the three firms had sought a franchise for the entire five-community area.

City probes landfill operations

By BOB AMEEN

Mayor William M. Oakley has asked his chief ordinance officer, Lee Silvey, to look into reported activities and operations at Mendrek's Dump, southwest of Ozga Road and the C & O Railroad.

The dump site and some additional 90 acres nearby were mentioned as the possible site for a recovery plant that would transform Detroit sewage sludge into fertilizer.

City officials are checking into a proposal by Detroit Recovery of Detroit to see if Romulus can legally accept cash payments to the city should the plant be built.

Detroit in its presentation said it may spend up to $7 million to build and facility and employ up to 50 persons. Further, it promised to follow city dictates on beautification of the area.

After reporting back Monday on his findings to the mayor, Silvey said he was instructed to look into the matter with other city departments on any violations. Silvey said it was possible that the state Dept. of Natural Resources (DNR) may be involved in checking if there are any violations, including possible health hazards at the site.

Further than that, Silvey said the mayor had nothing else to say on the matter.

Last week's news story noted that Joseph A. Mendrek, owner of some 40 acres of land, reportedly did not have permits from the city to dump trash and rubbish or for above ground storage of many of the items on his land.

"We will have to verify how long these activities have been going on. It's quite possible that many of them have been grandfathered from the time when Romulus was still a village," explained Silvey.

Among possible violations noticed by Silvey Friday during a short inspection of Mendrek's premises were a trailer with no city permit, a drain that was clogged with wooden pallets and garbage, and standing water.

Thousands of wooden pallets in stacks 15-20 feet high are located on Mendrek's land, apparently discarded by area manufacturing plants. The pallets are repaired and evidently sold back to the plants.

Silvey said that phase of Mendrek's operation was allowed under the light industrial zoning for the area.

The ordinance officer said he had

Willett to take part in Small Business conference

Small business will speak and the State of Michigan will listen next January, when a Michigan Small Business Conference, patterned after a similar White House conference held early this year, will take place.

A core of 11 Michigan small businessmen, among them David J. Willett of Wayne and Frank A. McMurray of Canton Township, will plan the conference, which has been called by Gov. William G. Milliken.

The governor last week named the 11 members of the State Small Business Conference Executive Council. It will be up to them to work with the Michigan Department of Commerce to plan the agenda for the unprecedented state conference.

Milliken noted that this state conference was called at the urging of the Michigan delegation that in January travelled to Washington, D.C., to attend the national conference. Heading up that Michigan delegation, and the person picked by the governor to be chairman of this executive planning council is Richard B. Sanford of Kalamazoo, who has become something of a self-styled spokesman and advocate of small business, which he calls "the awakening giant."

Willett, a resident of Wayne, also is owner of the Associated Newspapers, which publishes six weekly newspapers in Western Wayne County. President of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and officer of the Westland Chamber, Willett was a member of the Michigan delegation that went to Washington in January.

He is enthusiastic about the conference and its implications for small business.

"Today... Michigan's small business sector is facing difficult times," Willett said. "I think it most appropriate that such a conference be planned and staged to focus clearly on the problems and needs of Michigan small business."

"I look forward to working on such a vital and important project, particularly with people of the caliber selected for this council."

"I only hope that our efforts can, and will, make a difference in the future of small business in our state. We're going to try."

McMurray, president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, had similar comments about this appointment.

Our Heritage

Early schools were more than schools to early settlers

By PEARL VARNER

Education plays an important part in every community, now and in the past. Romulus citizens saw the need for education in the early days of their settlement. The formation of the first school district in the Township of Romulus, Michigan, took place on the fourth day of May 1839. The three men primarily responsible for the formation of School District Number One were the School Inspectors — Bradley Y. Tisdale, Nicholas W. Pullen and John C. Yates.

Teras School
Built in 1911

The first subject on their agenda was to build a school house. Motion was made to obtain a site as near the southeast corner of David J. Pullen's land as the same can be obtained. It was also voted to build a school house in the summer of 1839 and that the school house be of frame structure, 22 feet by 26 feet.

The following quote taken from the original hand written minutes of annual school meetings of May 4, 1839 through 1868 for Romulus

School District No. 1, is located at the Wayne Historical Museum.

"Resolved to authorize the District Board to let the job of building the school house to the lowest bidder. Resolved the cost of said house shall not exceed $300. Resolved that the school house shall be finished by the first Day of November next. Resolve to lease a site for a school house of David J. Pullen at 50 cents a year to be raised with the winter school tax. Resolved that this meeting to be dissolved. Romulus, May 22nd 1839. (Signed) F.Y.C. Jasper, Director, H.M.F. Smith, Moderator."

The lowest bidder was Hiram Fisk for $225. The school district meeting held on Oct. 7, 1839 resolved other important issues. Two-thirds of the public money was to be applied to the Winter School and one-third to the Summer School. In those days a summer and winter session were held. Winter School began about the middle of November and continued for three months. Summer School began the first of May and continued for four months.

Ira F. Johnson was born in Wyandotte, March 10, 1864, and came with his parents to the township of Romulus in the year 1866. He recalls attending the little red school house that stood on the southeast corner of the farm then owned by Nelson Coash, opposite the Maple Grove owned by August Gardner. This is the same school house related to us in the minutes of the school district No. 1 in 1839. As the population began to increase in 1892, the building was moved to where the Romulus Elementary School now stands. It was found to be too small and sold to the MacCabees. The school was moved again and used as a hall for many years. Later the building was moved again to its present location. It became the home of Ray Dugan. Today it is still being used as a residence, 141 years after its construction.

In the late 1890s a 2 room brick school house was built at the corner of Bibbins and Olive. The year 1910 brought two more rooms to the brick school house. George Porter was hired to finish off, seat and black-board two rooms of the school house for the sum of $500. School District

school district 2

No. 1 was on its way to becoming a 12-grade school.

On Aug. 5, 1910, the school district minutes record that it was voted on and passed to make the school a 12-grade school. The town's first high school graduating class was in 1916 and included Harry Barton, Ruth Rutter, Howard Porter, Alice Roach, Martha Gardner, Iva Moore, Clara Barton and Ben Scott. Lloyd Gullen was the teacher.

The structure known as the Romulus Elementary was built in 1923 to house grades K through 12 and the old one torn down. In 1929 the taxpayers of District No. 1 voted to bond for more than $90,000 to build a separate new high school unit on Olive Street. It was a tremendous undertaking for one district. This now houses the South Junior High School.

There were other school districts in the township and it appears that as the new districts were organized, they were numbered in accordance with those previously organized.

The other school districts were East Tyler, District No. 2; Woodville, District No. 3; Cory, District No. 4; Hall, District No. 5; Hale, District No. 6; Texas, District No. 7 FR; Hayti, District No. 3 FR; Mt. Pleasant, District No. 5 FR; Gordonier, District No. 6 FR.

In the year 1909 teachers in Romulus Township were being paid $30 per month. Teachers were required to do their own janitor work. At this time schools were in session nine months of the year, beginning in the month of September. Most of the schools were still of the 1-room type, with all the grades under the instruction of one teacher. This must have been quite a task for any teacher.

During these years each school district had their own board of

The Romulus Metrodrome is ready

Cable TV is nearing reality

offer "unequaled local programming" to Romulus. The firm said it could offer local cable TV reception, beginning in 8-9 months, with completion in 12-13 months. The company explained that it is currently building a cable TV system in Taylor and that completion of the Romulus system would depend upon how rapidly work progresses in Taylor.
Metrovision said it now has 16 cable TV franchises in operation, including suburbs of Chicago, New Orleans and Cincinnati and Detroit. The firm plans to begin cable TV reception in Redford this month.
Metrovision said it did not compete for the Western Five area because it followed a goal of providing "equal" coverage for all communities in which it is awarded franchises. The company said it did not feel all areas of the Western Five could be treated equally.
Metrovision said it is a subsidiary of Newhouse Broadcast Corp., a large company with abundant financial backing whose business last year was more than $2 billion.
A surprise appearance was made by Bell Broadcasting of Romulus, owners of Radio Station WCHB. Although physically located in Romulus, the station is licensed as an Inkster station.

Many in the audience were unaware that a local firm was involved in the bidding for a Romulus cable TV franchise or had the financial backing to build a system. Wendell Cox, one of the owners of Bell, introduced Harold Munn, a cable TV consultant from Coldwater, Mich., who represents the firm in technical engineering matters.
Cox stressed that his company was founded in 1956 in Romulus and did the impossible back in 1957 when it opened the first black-owned radio station in the nation. He said his company had paid more than $100,000 in city taxes over the years it has been operating at its location near Ecorse and Henry Ruff roads.
Cox and Munn stressed that Bell also owns and operates the jazz-oriented Radio Station WJZZ in Detroit that is much larger than WCHB. Munn explained that if Bell was awarded the Romulus franchise, it had plans to add Inkster to the cable TV system at a later date.

Munn said all policy decisions by Bell would be made locally and that the company would discuss with the city on where to build its cable TV studio. He said Bell could offer all of the features that would be provided by the larger cable TV firms, including a security alert system and a method to block out undesirable movies for children.
Bell did offer one feature not mentioned in presentations by the larger firms — a separate channel for programs in Spanish. Munn said Bell could be operational in four months, provide reception to most areas in seven months, and be completed in 24 months.
All of the cable TV companies in presentations have offered about the same features, including monthly charges of $7-8 for basic services and about the same amount for home movies under premium services. All companies offer access channels for local origination programs, such as meetings of the city council, township board, school board, etc.
Security systems that provide fast service in event of a house breakin, fire, or medical emergency also are offered by all of the companies.

In answers to question, mostly from Romulus Councilman Ed Rush, all said they would provide pre-payment of franchise fees to the city. All firms offer the maximum 5-percent a year franchise fee permitted by the Federal Communications Commission.

Western 5 to operate police communications network

A new police communications system that will serve four communities and be headquartered in Belleville has had wages approved by Wayne County and the Teamsters union for seven clerical dispatchers.
That information was made public at last week's meeting of the Western Five Community Conference at Van Buren Township Hall. The consortium has been assigned to administer the new communications network.
Henry Redman, Western Five director, told the group's board of directors that a recent meeting with the county and union worked out details that set beginning wages at $4.33 per hour for dispatchers.
After six months, Redman said, wages would go up to $4.60 per hour, and after one year, reach $4.80 per hour.
The communications system will serve the city of Belleville and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Canton.
Redman reported to the board that he will know by July 16 whether federal funding has been approved by the county to finance Western Five's operation for another year.
Redman said the county would like to see token amounts of money or services provided by member communities of Western Five towards next year's operation. He mentioned funds in the neighborhood of $500 to $1,000 from each community.
Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley indicated that Romulus could provide rent-free quarters for the consortium. Currently, Western Five is renting space in Van Buren Township Hall.

Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson and Huron Township Sup. Roy Raker said their respective budgets could not afford an allocation of money to Western Five.
The first and the only other consortium in Michigan is the Downriver Community Conference which is composed of 16 communities. Its operation is financed by healthy contributions of its members, according to Redman, and the consortium has achieved a respectable reputation in assisting its members in matters of mutual concern.
Redman was directed to set up a meeting with county officials and the Western Five board at which continued operation of the consortium will be discussed.

In other business, Redman said he had been approached by Van Buren Trustee Fred Domen on the possibility of setting up a library in the soon-to-be-built Wayne Community College branch campus in Van Buren Township.
Oakley, Emerson and Raker said they were not interested in the proposed program. Oakley said Romulus already had an excellent library. Emerson echoed his statement.
Discussion on the library proposal produced a consensus that the new college must have a good library and that Western Five community members should help in some way. Oakley indicated Romulus would be willing possibly to donate surplus books from its library.

Romulus is ready for big July 4th

Romulus residents have one of the biggest and best 4th of July parades and fireworks demonstrations to look forward to since the Bicentennial celebrations four years ago, according to Jay Young, Romulus Public Information Officer.
A volunteer committee composed of city workers and residents, have been hard at work planning the annual Independence Day event, but this year also marks the tenth anniversary of the City of Romulus.
As a result, more parade participants, ranging from baton twirlers to custom car owners, have signed up this year than in previous years. Also, this year will see a judges stand and prizes awarded for best in parade.
The parade is scheduled to begin at 12 noon from the City Hall parking lot, preceding west on Goddard to Five Points and Kennedy Park. After that, a community-wide picnic is scheduled at Elmer Johnson Park on Ozga Road, between Tyler and Wick.

At dark, a giant fireworks demonstration is planned at the park, which should last for approximately three quarters of an hour. This year, a large parking area has been prepared inside the park, between the two ball diamonds, and organizers assure the public of ample parking. Wayne County Sheriff deputies and Romulus reservists will be on hand to direct traffic.
Anyone still wishing to participate is urged to call 941-0666, ext. 216 to register for the parade.

CUFA to sponsor summer lunches

Communities United For Action Inc. (CUFA) will be sponsoring the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Summer Food Service Program, providing free lunches at designated sites throughout Western Wayne County for youths through 18 years of age, and those over 18 determined by state or local public educational agencies to be mentally or physically impaired.
The agency will be supplying more than 149,000 free lunches at 29 sites throughout the county's western area, now through Aug. 29. The lunches will be provided without regards to race, sex, religion, color, handicap or national origin.
Locally, lunches will be served at:

Tax man cometh

Bills will be higher this year

Summer is one of the two times each year that Romulus residents receive tax bills and those sent out July 1 will be higher for everyone.
Tax bill increases, according to Treasurer Beverly McAnally, will be due to a 6-percent reassessment hike imposed by Wayne County on real property this year, plus a 0.4 mill levy for the People's Community Hospital Authority (PCHA).
Recent action by city council put the operating millage levy at the maximum 10-mills allowed under the city charter and assessed the 0.4-mills for PCHA on top of that amount. Net effect to city taxpayers is a 0.4-mill jump in assessed millage.

Last year's total city millage rate of 31.43 mills now will become 32.03 mills, said McAnally. On a house whose state equalized value is $10,000, and whose market value is roughly double that figure, or $20,000, the total tax bill would jump from $314.30 to $339.52, an increase of $25.22, she said.

Assuming 100 percent collection for summer taxes, Romulus would receive $3,203,530.07 in city taxes and $5,114,606.68 in school taxes, the treasurer said. Adding in other charges for sidewalk and lighting assessments, delinquent water bills, weed cutting, paving, building demolition, etc., the total would swell to $8,760,975.70, she explained.
Still to be added into the total taxes received by the city are those received for real and personal property from businesses granted tax abatements under state Public Act 198, which amount to another $1,191,269.55, said McAnally.

The grand total which the city should receive, assuming 100-percent collection would reach $9,952,245.25, she said.
However, past experience has shown that the city can expect to collect roughly 90 percent of the total by the Sept. 30, 1980 deadline.
In some instances, senior citizens (age 65 and over) and some handicapped persons can apply for and get extensions on the deadline. Some seniors and handicapped even will receive rebates from the state, McAnally said. Rebates cannot be filed for until after Jan. 1, 1981, she advised, and these must be made to the assessor's office.
According to the treasurer, summer taxes must be paid by Sept. 30, 1980. After that date, taxpayers will be assessed a penalty of 1/2-percent a month on the balance due until March 1, 1981. Then, real property tax bills must be paid to the Wayne County treasurer, with hedged and did not answer the question directly. He said he did not actually bury garbage or trash at his dump site, but admitted storing a variety of items above ground.

Mendrek said the two cranes at his dump have been there for the 30 years of his operation. When asked about the bus, truck and car bodies at his dump, he dodged the question.
Mendrek said he did not feel he was doing anything wrong and planned to continue what he had always been doing at his dump.
According to those who know the area, some 30 feet of garbage, trash and rubbish lie beneath the surface of Mendrek's land from an earlier dumping grounds.
Silvey said that he didn't know why Mendrek was permitted to continue operations at his site that apparently are violations of city ordinances. But, he said, it was possible that some checked with the city building department and had confirmed that Mendrek does not have any city permits for operations at his dump. The telephone book lists his establishment as Mendrek's Commercial Dump, 36411 Ecorse Rd.

Silvey said the mayor asked him "to get together later on" after other city departments had looked into Mendrek's operations.
Contacted for comment Monday, Mendrek said, "I'm proud of my operation out here. We've been here for more than 30 years and we've been doing the same thing we always have."
He claimed the huge mound of broken concrete just inside the entrance to his dump was used on the roadway to his site.
Asked why he did not have city permits for his operation, Mendrek penalties amounting to a 3-percent collection fee and a 1-percent per month interest fee. Late payments on personal property tax bills must be made to the city treasurer.

Winter taxes are those owed for county and schools and must be paid between Dec. 1, 1980 and Feb. 15, 1981. Usually, city council extends that deadline to Feb. 28 of each year.
Senior citizens and the handicapped may be able to delay payment of both summer and winter taxes, said McAnally.

On 1980 summer taxes, if 1979 income is less than $10,000, and if application is made to the city treasurer by Sept. 15, 1980, tax bills can be deferred until Feb. 15, 1981.
On winter taxes, seniors and the handicapped can have tax bill payments delayed until April 30, 1981 if they contact the city treasurer before Feb. 15, 1981 and provided the city has this option.
The treasurer has issued a list of locations where 1980 taxes may be paid. They are: City of Romulus, 11111 Wayne Rd., Romulus; Wyandotte Savings, 31062 Ecorse Rd., Romulus; Security Bank & Trust, 9950 Wayne Rd., Romulus; Wyandotte Savings, 29501 Eureka Rd., Romulus; Wayne Bank, Wayne; Manufacturers National Bank, 36450 Goddard Rd., Romulus; and National Bank of Detroit, 10421

The Armed Forces

Stout, Shaheen eye
Air Force careers

Sandra L. Stout and Yolanda M. Shaheen, both of Romulus, have entered the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

Ms. Stout, 18, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Stout of Castle, Romulus, while Ms. Shaheen is the daughter of Mrs. Catherine Goodman of Merriman Road, Romulus.

According to Air Force recruiter S. Sgt. Bernie Schmidt, their entry into DEP allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for them to attend basic training at Lackland Air Force, Tex., and be assigned to a job or skill area.

Ms. Shaheen, a 1980 graduate of Romulus Senior High School, will enter the Air Force Oct. 6. Following basic, she will receive technical training in the administrative aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Ms. Stout, also a 1980 graduate of Romulus High School, will commence four years of active duty Sept. 22. She will receive technical training in general purpose vehicle maintenance before being assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Also in the armed forces: Pvt. Ricky L. Baynard, whose wife Donna lives in Evansville, Ind., recently completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Baynard of Schreiner Road, New Boston.

During the training, he received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

AMEAA Richard E. Leach has just returned home after serving two weeks of active duty training at Selfridge Air National Guard Base, Mt. Clemens. Leach, a graduate of Belleville High School, lives in Belleville with his wife Cheryl and daughter Angela.

He joined the Navy in February 1976.

Airman Deborah J. Pilon, the daughter of Richard D. Pilon of Newburgh, Carleton, has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, she earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman now will receive specialized instruction in the aircraft maintenance field.

Airman Pilon is a 1979 graduate of Airport High School, Carleton. Her mother, Marion Pilon, resides in Allen Park.

Airman Alan D. Nichols, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Nichols of McBride, Belleville, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force vehicle repair course at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

Graduates of the course learned to service and repair general purpose vehicles used by the Air Force, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Nichols, honor graduate, will now serve at Bitburg Air Base, West Germany.

He is a 1978 graduate of Belleville High School.

They're in the Air Force now

Lt. Col. Stephen J. Kuchta, Jr., of Belleville, recently administered enlistment oaths to Mark Whitehouse and Steve Maupin, Belleville High School Class of 1980 graduates. The new airmen are assigned to the 191st Fighter Interceptor Group (TAC) Michigan Air National Guard, Selfridge ANG Base. The 191st is one of three flying units of the Michigan Air National Guard. The unit furnishes 24 hour aerospace defense support of this sector for the tactical air command, United States Air Force. The new airmen will report for basic military training in San Antonio, Texas, from there they will be assigned to the technical training school in Denver, Colorado. Whitehouse will specialize in electronic maintenance and repair, while Maupin will train as a still photography specialist. Both will return to the 191st at Selfridge ANG Base for their weekend Air National Guard Training. All of Maupin's and Greathouse's training will be accredited by the community college of the Air Force towards an associate degree in their respective career fields.

Good work

The Wayne county Sheriff's Department recently was honored for its efforts in traffic enforcement on secondary roads by the Traffic Association of Detroit. Sheriff William Lucas (center) accepted a plaque from

Express mail debuts in city

The U.S. Postal Service has announced that the Belleville Post Office now has next day express mail service to more than 850 major metropolitan destination cities across the United States.

Express mail service has been designed to meet the increasing demand for fast reliable delivery of letters, documents, merchandise and other mailable items, according to Belleville Postmaster R.J. O'Neil. The top line of Postal Service, express mail reportedly has a 95 percent on time delivery record.

Next day express mail service is a guaranteed next day delivery system for customers with a need for a completely reliable delivery of urgent mail, O'Neil stressed, adding that customers can deposit any mailable item at the Belleville Post Office before 5 p.m., with express mail availability at the destination post office as early as 10 a.m. of the next retail business day.

Post office to addressee express mail service offers delivery to the addressee's home or place of business often as early as 11 a.m., but no later than 3 p.m. O'Neil said.

The Belleville Post Office is one of 13 recently added post offices to the express mail program. The post office is located at 330 Charles St.

For further information on next day express mail service contact the post office at 697-8703.

Attention, veterans

VA benefits explained

Editor's Note: The following question and answer column is provided by the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Department of Michigan, Service and Rehabilitation Office.

Q: I am a veteran of WWI. Has there been any changes in VA benefits?

A: Veterans of WWI and the Mexican border campaign of 1916-1917 are eligible for outpatient care except dental treatment at VA clinics for any disability — regardless of whether or not it is service connected — YES, THERE HAS BEEN!

Q: I was injured in WWII service, but have never filed a claim. Is it too late to do so now?

A: No. There is no time limit for filing a claim for compensation.

Q: My wife and I are both veterans. May we acquire property jointly, combine our entitlements, and increase the amount of a home loan guaranteed by the VA?

A: Irrespective of the combined entitlement VA will not guarantee more than 60 percent of the loan.

Q: I am a veteran with multiple amputations. Has there been an increase in benefits I should know about?

A: Veterans with multiple amputations may be eligible for increased, retroactive benefits, if they develop a heart condition related to their wounds. Eligible veterans must apply for the higher benefits before Aug. 22, 1980, in order to receive the increased rates retroactive to Aug. 22, 1979. In addition to increased benefits for veterans themselves, widows of certain amputee vets who die of a heart condition may be entitled to VA dependency and indemnity compensation instead of lesser death pension benefits. YES, THERE HAS BEEN!

Q: What is the new interest rate on VA guaranteed home loans?

A: The maximum rate for VA is 11.5 percent, FHA is .5 percent higher as of May 15, 1980. Because the rate goes up and down you should check with VA at the time you plan to buy.

Q: What is the maximum VA home loan available?

A: VA guarantees loans made by private lenders. There are no established maximums. However, no loan may exceed the reasonable property value.

The Military Order of the Purple Heart has established the Department of Service and Rehabilitation to assist veterans, dependents and survivors in the preparation of proper forms and assembling of evidence necessary to obtain rightful benefits from the federal and state governments. Also to help overcome more bureaucratic obstacles imposed by ever increasing and more complicated laws and regulations. There are no fees or gratuities accepted for services. There are no membership requirements for the services. If you need any assistance please feel free to contact us at 964-6888.

Shroud: Fact or fiction

"The Shroud: Fact or Fiction?" is the title of a special seminar to be offered this summer at Detroit Bible College. The seminar will attempt to answer such questions as: Is the Shroud of Turin, Italy an authentic archeological find? Is it the burial garment of Jesus Christ? These questions and many more will be covered in four lectures on July 14, 21, 28 and Aug. 4 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Dr. Gary Habermas, chairman of the department of philosophy at Detroit Bible College, will conduct the seminar. He also is co-authoring a book on the Shroud with Kenneth Stevenson, the spokesman for the team of scientific investigators.

The seminar will be held at the Detroit Bible College campus at 35700 W. Twelve Mile Road in Farmington Hills. The cost is $12. The seminar is open for all who wish to attend. Registration will be at 6:30 p.m. July 14. For further information call 553-7200.

Beautification award

Janice Garzoni, regional administrative secretary with Emery Air Freight, 33801 Goddard in Romulus, proudly accepts the "Industrial Standard of Excellence Award" from Public Information Officer Jay Young, on behalf of the Romulus Beautification Committee. The award, established by the Committee to recognize the contribution that business has made to "the beauty and aesthetic quality of Romulus" is only the second award given since Detroit Diesel Allison received the award last year.

Emery has been at their Romulus location for approximately 12 years and serves as the regional headquarters for a three state area. Under Ms. Garzoni's direction, the company upgraded their facility by painting the exterior, landscaping the entrance area with split rail fences, new shrubs and wood chips with plans to establish an employee picnic area in the near future. In addition, the interior of the office was also improved with color coordinated offices established throughout the building.

Red Cross in dire need of blood

With the long Fourth of July holiday weekend drawing near, the American Red Cross Blood Services says it's time to "rise and shine and give blood."

Blood supplies already are below normal levels, a Red Cross spokesman said. In order to meet the patient needs in the 75 metropolitan Detroit hospitals, the Red Cross must collect between 950 and 1,000 pints of blood each day. Average daily collections in the last month have been less than 950 pints.

A blood donation takes less than an hour from the time the donor registers to the post-donation snack in the canteen.

Carving an hour from a "fun-filled" summer schedule to help save a life should be an easy task for all of us, a spokesman said.

Anyone between the ages of 17 and 65 and in good general health can be a blood donor. Seventeen-year-olds must have written parental consent, and donors past their 65th birthday are required to submit permission from their personal physician.

All regional donor centers will be open Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for blood donations. Call your nearest donor center today and make an appointment to give blood to celebrate your independence and good health.

Romulus summer programs get underway

Cong. Ford asks President Carter:

Cut oil imports and end 'this political blackmail'

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman William D. Ford (D-Mich) has joined with a number of his colleagues in calling upon President Carter to reduce the nation's oil imports.

In a letter to the President, Congressman Ford and several dozen other members of the House asked that quotas be imposed to reduce oil imports to an average of 6.4 million barrels daily.

"This message to the President is designed to show him that we in the Congress are deadly serious about ending our nation's dangerous dependence on imported oil," Congressman Ford said.

"The situation makes us subject to economic and political blackmail, and it has been a major factor in many of our nation's problems — inflation, recession, balance-of-trade deficits, and unemployment. We simply must take action before it is too late."

Congressman Ford noted that the congress is passing many energy-related bills, but that the nation has made no serious attempt to curtail imports.

In 1979, American consumption averaged nearly 17,000,000 barrels daily, of which more than half was imported from the OPEC nations.

"The result has been a drain on our national wealth, which now exceeds $70 billion a year," Congressman Ford said. "The American consumer is saddled with double-digit inflation, and the American dollar grows weaker and weaker in the world economy. Reducing our oil imports is a simple, direct way to attack the problem."

The letter to President Carter reads as follows:

Dear Mr. President: We compliment you on your continuing efforts to reduce our nation's reliance on imported oil.

We urge you to exercise further your congressionally-approved authority to establish oil import quotas in order to reduce the maximum allowable level of oil imports to an annualized figure of 6.4 million barrels per day.

We would strongly support programs which would effectively help the nation adjust to this level.

This positive action would improve both our domestic economy and our international standing, which is critical to our long term economic health.

Senate criticizes state for foreign truck purchases

The Michigan Senate has overwhelmingly approved a resolution criticizing the Department of Natural Resources for their recent purchase of two Japanese made pickup trucks.

SCR 758, sponsored by Senator David Plawecki, points out that more than 270,000 auto workers are currently laid off, resulting in the hardest economic times in Michigan since the Great Depression.

"One of the main reasons for our bleak economic climate is the massive influx of foreign made vehicles into this country," said Plawecki, D-Deerborn Heights. "To have the State of Michigan further aggravate this situation by purchasing two Toyota pickup trucks shows a complete lack of common sense and sensitivity for Michigan's unemployed workers."

Plawecki, the Majority Floor Leader of the Senate, said that he hopes the Governor's recently announced "Buy American Cars" campaign is an indication that the DNR Toyota purchase would not be repeated.

"The Governor's promotional idea is a nice symbolic gesture," said Plawecki. "I hope he follows it up by instituting a 'Buy American Cars' policy within the Executive branch of government."

"Slumping auto sales not only add to our unemployment problems, but increase demands for state assistance programs while decreasing incoming tax revenues," said Plawecki. "The resulting budget crunch has forced the Legislature to cut back on vital services in many areas, including education, social services and mental health."

Editorial opinions

Fertilizer plant would help growth

If the price is right, and the site appears to be right, then everyone can benefit from Detro Recovery of Detroit's plans to build in Romulus.

All parties should review, bisect, dissect each step before they leap, however.

Currently, Romulus officials are studying a proposal by Detro Recovery of Detroit to build a plant in their community that would transform sewage sludge into fertilizer.

Ordinarily, the residents of most communities automatically resist any kind of facility in their area that handles sewage. On the surface, that is understandable.

But, if Detro's proposal proves feasible, it holds many plusses for the city of Romulus, such as:

- Possible yearly revenue to the city of $150,000-$300,000. (The legality of accepting payment from Detro is being checked out.)
- Detro could spend up to $7 million to build the plant, thus providing jobs for many local residents.
- Detro would employ up to 50 persons to operate its plant when completed.
- The Detroit sewage sludge that would be handled by Detro would already have been processed by the city of Detroit into odor-free semi-solid material.
- Some 128 acres of nearly unrecyclable land, including 40 acres occupied by Mendrek's Commercial Dump would be turned into a modern, beautifully landscaped plant.

Many "ifs, ands and buts" remain to be worked out before such a sizable undertaking as that proposed by Detro could become a reality. Detro must present a site plan to the city planning commission and secure that body's approval before proceeding to obtaining an okay from city council.

Also coming into the picture will be inspections by the state Dept. of Natural Resources, and several county, federal, and other state agencies. Their approval will figure prominently in whether Detro would be permitted to construct such a plant in Romulus.

According to Hyle Carmichael, the city's industrial coordinator, Detro would mix wood chips and other materials with the processed Detroit sewage sludge to make fertilizer that would be sold on the open market.

Much remains to be resolved before all that is envisioned and proposed by Detro actually has life breathed into it and becomes a workable operation.

But, if Detro's plan proves workable and practical, then city officials and residents alike should give serious thought to having a new plant, yes, a fertilizer plant, in their community.

Right now, Mendrek's dump southwest of Ecorse and the C & O Railroad is effectively hidden from passing motorists by trees and other foliage. Would not that same camouflage and newly-constructed berms also hide Detro's new fertilizer plant?

Before rash and hasty decisions are made, we believe that long and careful thought be given to Detro's proposal by the entire Romulus community.

It's the good times, the good people, you remember

By MAUREEN CAMPS

I have always been, first and last, a sentimentalist. I feel things deeply — cry easily, laugh easily, anger quickly, love devotedly; true to my Irish lineage and Bullish zodiac.

So I've delayed writing this column that says "goodbye" to people who I've worked with and known for six years. Looking back like this on a chapter of life opens a floodgate of remembrances, fondnesses, shared joys and calamities, emotions and memories most of us tuck away and only pull out on very special occasions, like this one.

I'm hanging up my reporter's notebook, and moving on to a new career in communications. You might say I'm going over to the "other side." I'll be community relations director for the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA), which owns and operates five hospitals including Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

It is a career opportunity that will challenge and revitalize this old reporter, and I'm excited and pleased about the new job.

But today, pecking away at my typewriter (vintage 1952 — the year I was born), it's hard to think about the delights of the new job, while I'm surrounded by the delights of the old.

I've wrapped myself up in my sentimentalism, just for today, for old times sake.

I've just this moment discovered that the adage is true — you remember the good times, not the bad. Today I can't seem to recall any bad times, in my six years as a reporter.

I do remember all my co-workers, past and present, with deep affection — although I'm sure there must have been times I wanted to throttle them individually and collectively for one reason or another. Just can't seem to remember that, though. I just recall how we worked long and hard together, how we goofed off together, how we cared about each other and helped out. It's been a true privilege to work with such fine people, and that very definitely includes the ones no longer at the newspaper, some of them the ones who helped break me in when I was a "cub" reporter six years ago.

You all know who you are, and it's you that have made it all worthwhile.

We all have one very vital thing in common — a love for the profession. Newspaper reporting and publishing is the only career I've ever known. I came to the Associated Newspapers bright-eyed and dimpled, fresh out of college. I've loved my job every minute since then. Newspapering is important and rewarding work.

But it's not just co-workers who made the commensurate with the amount the public pays to finance them."

The Senate Majority Leader pointed out the public does indeed care about who is being appointed to public positions of trust and responsibility.

"The recent public reaction that quickly became evident after the governor named Peter B. Fletcher, his Republican friend and ardent University of Michigan fan, to the Michigan State University Board of Trustees is proof positive that the public is concerned about these gubernatorial appointments," Faust said.

He also said that the proliferation of public interest groups over the past several years has resulted in more attention being paid to the credentials and backgrounds of public appointees.

The introduction of the Faust bill is consistent with other major steps that he and the Senate have taken over the past year in an all-out effort to open up state government and make it more accountable to the people.

The Senate's demonstrated willingness to assume more responsibility through the use of its constitutionally-mandated advice and consent power, the submission of detailed questionnaires from the Senate to gubernatorial appointees and Faust's introduction of Senate Joint Resolution "K," a proposed constitutional amendment that would require Senate approval of all persons appointed to fill vacancies on the governing boards of Michigan State University, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University, are among the actions that have been taken to insure that those appointed to public office will be among the best qualified to serve.

"We have thousands of very talented and highly skilled people in Michigan who possess a multitude of abilities that could be utilized effectively in public office," Faust said.

"The enactment of my bill would make it easier for all Michigan residents to find out about the many opportunities that exist for public service and it would also serve as an invitation to join in making this an even better state in which to live."

Making sure 'who's who'

By WILLIAM FAUST
Senate Majority Leader

(LANSING) — Another important step toward bringing the best people in Michigan into public service occurred when Senate Majority Leader William Faust introduced a bill requiring the governor to prepare a public register on state appointments.

Under the terms of the Faust proposal, every state board and commission would be listed in the register, along with information on each board and commission member, including their name, address, age, sex, race and number of terms served. In addition, the salary or per diem paid for each position and the specific qualifications required or desired would be listed in the register.

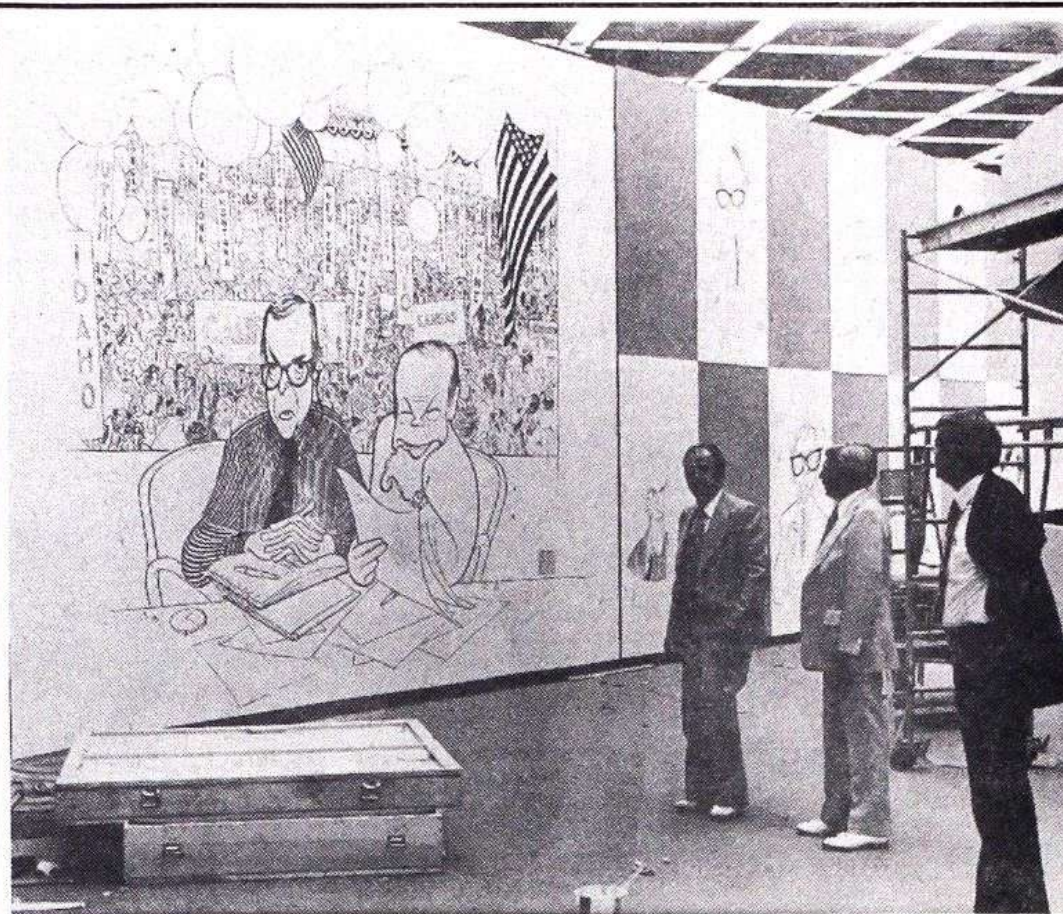

Furthermore, the register, which would have to be kept updated, would include information on how to apply for an appointment and would be available for public viewing in the governor's office, the state library and all county clerk offices.

"The introduction of this bill represents a necessary step toward the goal of making state government more accessible and responsible to the people of Michigan," Faust (D-Westland) said.

He also said that "the enactment of this measure would provide a legislative prescription for helping to correct some of the major maladies in the present process of appointing persons to serve on state boards and commissions."

Specifically, the Majority Leader explained, the adoption of this bill should result in the appointment of more women and minorities to state boards and commissions, make the public more aware of the many opportunities to serve on these boards and commissions and give Michigan residents more input into a process that is now essentially closed to them, but for which they pay millions of dollars annually.

"A 1977 study by the Senate Fiscal Agency showed that more than $3.7 million was spent annually on some 200 state boards and commissions," Faust said. "Currently, however, the amount of public participation in the decision-making process of who is going to be named to serve on these boards does not begin to be

in July

By TOM MOORADIAN
Acting Managing Editor

Like stage hands each knew what his — or her — role was. They worked feverishly, pounding nails into planks, carrying timber to the right spot, springing up telephone wires and television cables.

Morning comes and goes — the work is twenty-four hours. There is a deadline to meet. Everything has to be ready for those four historic days in July.

On July 14, the GOP Convention will get underway in Detroit. No matter how one looks at it — it is an awesome event, a historic moment that took millions of people and millions of dollars to make it a reality.

Just meeting the communications needs of the convention is the single biggest service job of its kind ever undertaken by Michigan Bell, says William Hensley, of Bell's public relations department.

"The scope of the job is comparable to designing, engineering and then almost overnight building a phone company within a phone company to serve a city with a population of about 25,000," Hensley points out.

Not only has Michigan Bell accepted the challenge to provide the communications needs of "one of the greatest shows on earth," but there will be a task force of about 100 technical specialists from American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and some 14 other Bell System companies around the country ready to do the work.

Michigan Bell's local PR man Haze Wilson had invited Associated Newspapers publisher David Willett and myself to tour the convention sites — the Joe Louis Arena and Cobo Hall.

It was a tour we will not forget: Picture 100,000 square feet of space and hundreds of men and women working frantically to build studios for television, radio and other media networks. There will be approximately 8,000 newspaper, radio and TV people covering the convention. In ratio, the media will outnumber the delegates almost on a 4-1 basis.

On July 14, some 1,994 Republican delegates and an equal number of alternates are expected to storm the arena. Among their ranks will be some of the most influential people in the world.

Conservative estimates are that 50 million dollars will be spent during those four days in July. Even the oil sheiks don't spend that much in a week.

And because of the wealth and influence that will be roaming the streets, security will be of the barbed-wire fence kind. Credentials will be checked coming and going from the convention sites. Some 700 telephones have been installed by Michigan Bell in the immediate area around the convention site.

Five-hundred of those telephones will remain after the convention, Hensley says.

"Using video monitoring and switching consoles in the Television Operations Center (TOC)," Hensley said, "Michigan Bell and AT & T Long Lines personnel will be able to control the quality of all television signals broadcast from the convention to the world."

"Following the convention, we plan to sell much, if not all, of the equipment to other Bell companies," he said.

Hensley added that Michigan Bell will spend about $1.2 million in extraordinary costs — costs strictly related to servicing the convention — and we don't expect to make a profit from all of this."

And Michigan Bell is probably the only company that won't.

The inescapable fact is that thanks to the Republicans there are hundreds of hundreds of people working in a city that is ironically a Democratic stronghold.

job such a pleasure. One of the advantages of being a reporter is the opportunity to meet and work with and interview and get to know so many other people.

There are those citizens who you'll meet only once or twice because they somehow made "news." Then there are the on-going relationships with other community people — the crusaders, the characters, the caring people. They all helped make this job so interesting, be they calling to complain about a wrong or publicize a right.

Facts and falsehoods

EDITOR: There are days when your editorial policy appears to be a real joke, and your recent editorial entitled "Advisory Question — Is It A Cop Out" is a fine example.

A few short weeks ago, an editorial of yours slammed the Van Buren Township board for taking away the power of voice from the people when you mistakenly accused them of moving the audience portion of the meeting to a different place on the agenda. This week you gripe because they're giving people a chance to vote on a controversial issue.

You are obviously confused. Maybe you wouldn't be if you had the true facts at hand. There are two outright falsehoods in your editorial. I quote them below, along with facts you overlooked.

FALSEHOOD: "We hoped the township would have decided the issue without the added cost. What cost ... tabulation of the results for one."

FACT: Any added cost for tabulation on the advisory question would be nominal. We're having an election that day, anyway, and votes are counted on the machine.

FALSEHOOD: "The township got itself off the hook and placed the sticky issue in the lap of the electorate" — your entire editorial preface implies that the township board is just wishy-washy.

FACT: The Van Buren Township Board banned fishing, swimming, loitering and parking totally from the bridge and causeways of all three bridges concerned. The deed you cry for is done. What more can you ask?

You claim that the Van Buren Township Board is wishy-washy. It looks to me like sometimes newspaper editorial policy is wishy-washy too.

A sizeable confusion

EDITOR: I am very upset by a statement in the article attributed to a Van Buren police officer. He states that: a sizeable percentage of those ticketed were wanted for various offenses on warrants by Detroit police. I must take exception to the use of the words sizeable percentage. Does the officer mean 10 percent, 50 percent or 70 percent. Those two words, sizeable percentage could mean anything. When reading the article, the reader is left on his or her own to decide what the officer meant by those words. Depending on the person's personal views, sizeable percentage could mean whatever they wished to support their own views. Using those same words, a statement in the fishermen's favor could be made. Such as: A sizeable percentage of the fishermen are fishing with their families, enjoying a family outing.

I feel such a statement such as the one made by the officer is very unfair. I would like to see a rough estimate as to the actual percentage, of the total number of fishermen, who are actually wanted on warrants. We have seen once again how the choice of words used can convey any meaning the reader or speaker wishes them to have.

Magi group cancelled

EDITOR: Due to very unfortunate circumstances the folk dance group Magi will not be performing during the July 4th celebration in downtown Belleville.

This group was founded by Catalina Hall, who brought a proposal before the committee to have dancers between the ski show and fireworks.

The last discussion between her and Mike Doyle, chairman of the committee, was that the vote had been tabled, he would let her know the outcome, and he was certain it would pass.

Ms. Hall began preliminary work on a program and was never informed that the proposal failed. We regret this and apologize to the members of Magi for any inconvenience.

What it's like to be in jail

EDITOR: I want to share an experience I had so that maybe some of the younger people will know what it's like when you're put behind bars.

It is not a pleasant experience, and I have no one to blame but myself. But then we learn from experience, don't we?

I did time in a county jail in the East Tawas area.

When you come from the courthouse to the jail, the turn key at the jail takes all the information for your records. Then, you are asked to take everything out of your pockets, even your watch and rings, and put them in a large envelope.

The money you have on you goes in your account. Then you go in a small room and take off your clothes and put on jail clothes. They are put in a locker until you get out. Then, you are issued bedding, a mattress, towel and footies. Then you are assigned to a cell.

In the cell there are three bunk beds, two sinks, toilet, shower and a six foot long table welded to bars that go from one side of the cell to the other side.

You are given three meals a day, but the food isn't really too good.

In the jail they have a commissary where you can buy candy bars, writing material, and cigarettes if you smoke. Then they take the money from your account to pay for the items you got from commissary.

You are given clean clothes and bedding on Monday and Friday. Visiting hours are Monday and Wednesday from 12:30-3 p.m. If you don't get any visitors on those days you get one phone call.

You are allowed two phone calls per week. We go outside in a large cage when the weather is nice. You are outside for about an hour. Then the turn key takes you back to your cell.

The police officer on duty reads all outgoing mail. Then if you get any mail coming in they inspect it too.

While you are in jail you have a lot of time to think of why you are in here. All there is to do is sleep, eat, write letters, read books, play cards and play the radio if you have one. You take a shower and just take care of yourself.

A lot of times on Friday and Saturday nights the police will bring in a rowdy person. By this time it's about 2 or 3 a.m. when you are asleep. The rowdy person and drunks in the next cell screaming and just carrying on. Then, you can't sleep. When you have served your time, you are let out at 7 a.m. You turn in your bedding, towel and mattress. Get into your own clothes, get your personal property and sign for everything.

If the fine is not paid you stay 30 more days, when you are leaving out the door, you say to yourself, "God I hope I never come back."

It's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live here. It's better to be able to say "I'm free."

Yard sale signs

EDITOR: Today I practiced one of my favorite hobbies — a "Garage Sale". I encountered a problem, in fact, several problems.

It seems that people who complete their garage sales still had their "road" signs up. I would like to suggest that if a person finishes his sale, would it be possible for him or her to remove the signs.

It's the least everyone can do.

VB ballots

EDITOR: To my knowledge in the last ten years there have been three Advisory Questions put on the ballot. The Van Buren Park and Lake were on the ballot twice and the once a week garbage pick-up for Van Buren Estates was the third.

When a question of such an aesthetic nature involves the majority, the most democratic thing to do is to take the politics of the few out of it and put it to the people to be decided by the people for the betterment of all.

Township elected officials should be complimented for putting the question on the ballot where the majority opinion should rule and once that has been decided then the elected officials' job is to enforce the ruling.

As for the added cost, what cost? There is an election anyway called the August Primary, the August Primary is older than your newspaper. The poll workers will be there to total the count for candidates and can just as well look at the total count on the Advisory Question. Your newspaper is irresponsible to insinuate that a special election is being held.

As you say, elected officials can be voted in office and voted out of office by their constituents.

Mr. Editor, how do we stop such biased and anonymous editorializing as yours? We can't! You make a mockery out of FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

Reflections

Except you be as little children...

Great psychics claim that if we listen carefully to children we can learn a great deal, for children, they claim, are tuned in, and the pure psychic vibrations are stronger at that time than at any other time of their lives. Perhaps it is because they have so recently come from wherever.

After raising six children and loving and hugging six grandchildren I feel the psychics are absolutely correct in their evaluations.

Children have a unique way of bringing God right down on their own level where they can see him, feel him, and be always aware of him.

I remember when we were preparing our daughter for her christening. She was three years old, but like my mother I had a strong feeling about baptism, and felt the child should at least be old enough to comprehend what the important ritual was all about. However, there were others who felt it should be done immediately after birth, and so we compromised and the little one was baptized when she reached three years of age.

I stood her on a chair and prepared her for the impressive ceremony. The little mite in her yellow, ruffy dress, her curls hanging loose upon her shoulders, and her huge blue eyes filled with an out-of-this-world wisdom nodded solemnly as I brought God and the angels into the picture.

The soberness didn't leave her little face as she watched the white-robed minister pick up each baby, cuddle him to still the startled cries, and then press the water upon his forehead. She made no protest when he picked her up and held her in his arms. Her huge eyes watched solemnly as he prayed and then reached towards the font for the water to be pressed upon her forehead.

As we were on our way home she stood between her father and me, quietly taking in the world as it passed our windows. Finally sighing a little sigh, she said, "I didn't see God there, or was that he who po'd wata on me head?"

Three years ago our grandson Jamie was christened. In attendance, besides his parents, grandparents, and god-parents was his big brother Jason, who had just reached three years of age. As the priest in flowing white robes came into the church, Jason, whose voice can reach the heavens with no effort, shouted, "Is THAT God?"

Last Sunday wee Bobby was christened. As we drove up to the church, Jamie, who is now three years old, looked over the mighty structure and said, "What is this?" "It's the church," his father told him, and his mother said, "Honey, this is God's house."

The big eyes opened wider as he looked all around him, and then he asked, "Did He MOVE?"

We had one boy who claimed that God used to put his ladder down into his bedroom and call, "Hey little brother, come up here and see us." He would climb up the ladder and God would reach out his hand and pull him on up. He would then lift the little guy up on his shoulders and take him all around heaven where there were wondrous things to see.

One morning my little boy was eating his pancakes and syrup. The syrup was dripping down his chin as he turned his big eyes on me.

"God put his ladder down in my bed last night," he said. "And I was there most all night."

"Did you see anything new?" I asked him.

"Nope," he answered, making a mighty swipe at the syrup. "But," sticking his little bare foot out at me, "I got a sliver in my foot from the ladder."

God is a real person to these little ones, and sometimes I wish I had that beautiful, simplistic view of God, because, you see, I think the kids know more about Him than we do.

Bill aimed at security guards

By KAREN J. KRUGER
Guest Columnist

Michigan security guards who patrol stores, recreation areas, automotive plants and businesses are not required by law to have recent training in the use of the firearms they carry, according to State Rep. Joseph F. Young Jr. (D), Detroit.

But house bill 4243, part of a three bill security package, would amend sections of the 1968 statute to require certification of competency and provide for licensing of security guards who carry guns.

Rep. Joseph Young Sr. began to piece together new security legislation in 1977. His son inherited the bills with the representation of Detroit's 15th district. The bills are now being discussed in the Committee of State Affairs.

The legislation was prompted by and tailored to ease complaints originating from the 15th district.

One complaint described a security guard who arbitrarily frisked young patrons on their way into a Detroit roller rink. Another was from a mother who said she was severely startled by an armed security guard who suddenly appeared in the aisle of a supermarket where she was shopping with her child.

Rep. Young said his father received complaints of guard discourtesy.

The revised security act would require an officer to complete at least 16 hours of on range firing during which the guard would establish at least a 180-point score on a target course. A total of 40 training hours would be required.

A private security guard would not carry a firearm, but possibly use a night stick or non-lethal aerosol repellant. At least 16 hours of required training would include instruction in guard courtesy, limits of job authority and weapons restriction.

Guards hired as watchmen would receive instruction on the proper authority to contact in an emergency and be prohibited from consistent contact with the public.

At some security companies classroom training is presently limited to a quick 20 minute TV movie that includes a presentation on the history of the company. The rest of the time is devoted to fitting uniforms and filling out lengthy forms. The second hour of training time may, in some cases, be skipped.

Any guard may now be authorized to wear a pistol on duty. "The law requires only that a guard be given a permit for the gun and that the weapon remain with the employer when the guard signs off duty," Rep. Young Jr. said.

Lt. Robert Young, who is employed as the senior Pinkerton security officer, said last summer that in the event of a strike or other emergency he would immediately issue guns to guards at his plant and require the guards to wear them.

However the day shift guard force consisted of high school graduates and elderly retirees with no recent weapons instruction. Lt. Young said the reason this would be done is for looks. "A uniformed guard who wears a visible weapon primarily acts as preventive security," Lt. Young said.

Boyd Dowell, who had been a plant guard at Commodore Steel in Warren, said he regularly carried a pistol on duty but had no prior instruction in its use.

Rep. Joseph Young Jr. said the purpose of the bill is not to interfere with security operations.

"But the revised act would provide the public with a better trained, better qualified security force. And the restrictions would tend to strain out those who might not relate effectively in the job," Rep. Young said. Most businesses are required by law to hire security personnel so they can qualify for insurance benefits.

Shower invitation cloudy

DEAR CAROL,

What do you do when you receive an invitation to a wedding shower and do not recognize the name of the future bride?

Answer soon as it came today.

In a Hurry

DEAR HURRY,

Is there an RSVP? Frequently RSVPs are made via the telephone and if this is the case, call and indicate that you are not familiar with the name of the honoree.

This may not be as unusual as one might assume in that these occasions are generally for the female and you might be better acquainted with the male.

You can then decide while you are on the telephone whether you know the individual well enough to respond in the affirmative or negative.

Please don't feel coerced into responding affirmatively to an invitation if you do not think you know the individual well enough. Some people use these events as excuses to get gifts from even the most casual acquaintances.

DEAR CAROL,

I have a problem in that I hold a presently unpopular view on a "hot" issue in Van Buren Township. How do I get to state my opinion when it appears that a vociferous group is getting all the attention?

Common sense and sensitivity to our times should prevail in the decision of fishing in Belleville Lake. The Van Buren Board, with the backing of the residents, has fought long and hard to preserve the quality of the water ... for ... the fish?

In passing the Forbidden Zone along the Belleville Bridge (after I gathered the nerve to drive over it) I recognized several of the people fishing — they were township residents.

None blocked the road, and a couple smiled at me — I suspect some sensed my nervousness.

My gosh! This whole unpleasant mess, the then, enjoyable past time of fishing — ahem, kind of made me feel good, please tell, is this type of fishing going to be made illegal?

I would like to hope, before the season is over, that something can be worked out.

An Oldtime Softee, who loves you all.

DEAR SOFTEE,

If you want to have a say in your government, let your voice be heard. Let your elected officials who are your representatives know how you feel.

Across the nation in all the little towns and communities to the large cities and states there are differences of opinion, view and special interest.

That's one of the nice things about living in the United States.

We may not get our way every time, but at least we are heard.

It's the good times, the good people, you remember

Other news sources, particularly those in the public sector, were people I worked with every week — elected officials, city and school staffers, from the department heads to the secretaries (who were invaluable friends in tracking down people and information), the cops, the fire fighters.

My thanks to them for returning my calls, trusting my judgment, and even in disagreement coming back and talking out differences. I always tried to treat all with professionalism, and I nearly always got cooperation in return.

The City of Wayne was my first "beat," the City of Westland my longest one, and I'll remember both fondly. After covering the city governments, I am proud to have had the pleasure of seeing true displays of civic responsibility and caring for the community in most of these officials. People don't trust government, and reporters shouldn't, but I must say the majority of the public officials I've dealt with have earned my respect.

I anticipate finding the same caliber of co-workers, the same interesting and varied types of people, working with PCHA.

Actually, I'm not leaving the area at all. The PCHA covers nearly all of the communities in which Associated Newspapers publishes I'll be around. Of course, it won't be the same. You can't go back. But then again, going forward is how our clocks operate, and so must we.

I hope to read the Eagle for many, many years to come. I love the place and everyone in it. It's been good to me and I hope I've returned the favor.

Another thing about sentimentalists — sometimes we don't know when to stop. So, enough said.

A survey of calotype and albumen processes

By DONGREENE

As the evolution of modern day photography quickened, William Henry Fox Talbot, too, was making new experiments. Talbot discovered that by subjecting his exposed paper to development in gallic acid and silver nitrate solution that this would shorten his exposure time considerably.

Talbot would include Sir John Frederick William Herschels' process in his new patent and call it the calotype (it also would be known as talbotype). The calotype would not compare with the Daguerreotype as it lacked the fineness of detail and delicacy of tone. But one advantage of the calotype was that any number of identical copies could be made.

Some of the best examples of the calotype print were made by Robert Adamson and David Octavius in Scotland and still rank among the best.

At about the same time, Abel Niepce De Saint-Victor, cousin of Joseph Niepce (the inventor of heliography) was working on his new process of sensitizing glass plates with an emulsion of silver iodide and fresh whipped egg whites. This method would be known as the Albumen process. This was a very slow process, but resulted in prints of fine detail and good gradation in tone.

If you would like to learn more about the evolution of modern photography, keep reading my column in this paper.

Film selection is a personal and highly opinionated aspect of photography, yet often misunderstood by beginners. Most beginners want a film with high speed (ASA), fine grain and the ability to record whatever passes in front of their lens. Consequently, most beginners go from one film to another and are never quite satisfied with the results.

To select the proper film for the job you need to know something about how film works. Regardless of whether you are considering black and white or color film, three things are characteristic of all emulsion used in film today — Speed (ASA), grain structures and image sharpness (acutance). Let's look at each of these factors.

When we speak of film speed we mean the film's sensitivity to light. This sensitivity to light is called ASA in the U.S.A. and DIN in Europe. The higher the ASA the more sensitive to light the film will be. For example, a film with ASA 125 is twice as sensitive to light as a film with ASA 64. Since a film with a high ASA needs less light to deliver similar negative qualities the fast film can extend your photographic capabilities, but usually means increased grain and lessened acutance.

Next week we will look at grain and find out what acutance means.

This calotype was taken in the Village of Newhaven, Scotland, in 1845.

Feeding from the table

BY STANLEY BARTKIEWICZ
DVM

It is very hard to resist the temptation of feeding your pet from the table. As long as the pet is on a good commercial diet, little harm is done by supplementing up to 10 to 15 percent of the diet. If fed exclusively from the table, a little of everything should be fed (i.e., meat, potatoes, and vegetables) and a vitamin supplement should be given. Do not feed just meat. It is not a nutritionally balanced diet and a deficiency may develop.

Milk is commonly fed to cats and dogs. Pets can lose the ability to breakdown a sugar (lactose) in the milk. Undigested, this sugar will then act as a laxative. Milk often causes a diarrhea in dogs and cats. Offer fresh clean water instead of milk.

Bones often are fed to dogs. Many problems can arise from this. No matter how small the dog or how large the bone, they still can get a splinter off of the bone. This splinter can irritate the stomach and intestines causing a vomiting and/or diarrhea. If the splinter punctures through the intestines, an infection of the abdomen will occur and may be fatal. Splinters pass to the rectum eventually and may cause a constipation due to the pain of the needle-like points on the splinters. This may occur in any size dog and will require X rays and enemas to cure the problem. Round steak bones may be eaten whole or ring the lower jaw behind the canines requiring surgical removal. Feed your dog hard biscuits or rawhide chews. Bones can only cause problems.

Many foods are given to improve the hair coat. A tablespoon of pure corn oil in the diet two to three times each week may improve the coat's shine. Other oils may coat the intestines and decrease absorption of nutrients, doing the opposite of what is desired. Bacon fat may be given providing it does not cause a vomiting or diarrhea. Raw eggs decrease biotin (a B vitamin) so eggs should be cooked to avoid this problem. If a dog is on a balanced diet, little may be gained by giving any supplement.

Pets will eat a variety of things such as raw carrots, marshmallows, radishes, apples, etc. They don't need the table scraps, but it is hard to resist.

Get rich slow.

CAN I CHANGE MY WILL?

Yes, but remember: a will which has been properly drawn up and executed must never be changed in any personal or handwritten manner.

You can always change your will, but be sure to record those changes with the help of a lawyer to be sure that it still meets all the legal requirements of the state.

The court through which your will must be probated is directed to follow your instructions only so far as they are presented in the legal manner required by the legislature of your state.

These requirements vary from state-to-state and time-to-time. They are best handled under the guidance of a competent attorney. It is also recommended that, should you move to another state, you consult a lawyer to be sure your will meets the requirements of that state.

3 teams perfect in Wayne slo-pitch

Three teams continue to display untarnished records in Wayne's softball leagues.

Over in Class A men's slo-pitch, Burghuff Bar is running away with the title as it racked up its 11th consecutive victory, while in the women's Class A race, teams continue to eye leader, Tastee Freez, which has won all nine of its games this year.

Chums & Jakes is brandishing an 8-0 record in the men's Over 35 league.

Burghuff scored five times in the top of the seventh to turn back Pittman's 13-3 as Joe Kadlec picked up the victory. Kadlec was tagged for 10 hits. Randy Pittman connected for two of those and Mark Lipinski bagged a single, double and triple.

Rick Pittman, charged with the loss, gave up a pair of circuit clouts to Scott Brown who drove in five runs. Dave Conlin laced a pair of triples and had three hits for the evening, while Mark May, Mike Plagens and Gary Pierce each had two hits.

In other Class A action, Metro Merchants were no match for Johnny's Carbonic which crushed their rivals 21-5 as Charley Copeland hammered out four homers, a double and got nine RBIs for the game. Teammate Bill Hughes also homered, one of four hits for the off of loser, Roger Dery.

Bob Vojtkofsky, Steve Reitz and Al Campbell all had three hits for the winners. Meanwhile, Metro got an excellent hitting performance from Jim Spence who cracked a triple and two singles. Bob Pinckney and Tom Tompkins checked in with three and two hits, respectively.

Greg's shook off Star Optical 12-9 for its third victory in 13 starts. Greg Sowr laced three singles, while Dennis Kempainen and John Colligan each checked in with two hits for the winners. Bruce Strachen had three hits, Mike Cieliezka two and Jeff Carter socked the only homer of the game.

Over in Class B, the explorers leaped on winning hurler Rick Brewis for four runs in the first inning but the Village Bar pitcher settled down and chalked up a 15-5 victory. Bill Brewis helped his brother with a pair of hits, while Robert Lindon clouted a homer, two singles and drove in three runs for the winners. Dave Ross also checked in with two hits.

The Explorers received two hits from Tom Taylor and Bob Dreher. The Village Bar was awarded a victory via a forfeit when J & D Auto was a "no show" later in the week.

Jack's Sports erupted for 10 runs in the second inning then went on to bury Ernie's 29-9 in an Over 30 confrontation. John Hamilton, the winning pitcher, gave up 13 hits, including two each to Dean Smith, Pat Kenney and Joe Sanders.

Tom Daily drilled three hits, including a triple, while Don Domke had four, including a triple and double. Gene Piscopink turned in with three hits as his Andy DeSaeger.

The Sports Meridian

Strange summer

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The brilliance of this summer has apparently rubbed off on Norm Hoenes, known for his diamond strategy at Westland John Glenn and, who for the past four years has been responsible for fielding the Wayne Post 111 Legion baseball team during this brief period until footballs begin to fly.

This year's local Legion team is in the thick of the title race.

Because the metropolitan and weekly newspapers don't devote much space to Legion ball, it's difficult to follow the teams and where they stack up in that league.

"But, with a 7-4 record we're either on top or in second place," Hoenes said yesterday by telephone. "I feel we have an excellent squad this year thanks to some imports from Fordson."

From Fordson?

"Yes," said Hoenes, "we got four kids from Dearborn and, boy, would I like to have them playing for us at John Glenn. They make up our 'Italian' infield."

What happened to the Wayne kids who made it to the state semifinals this year?

"Well for some reason the kids at Wayne think they would get the shortend of the stick playing for a Glenn coach," explained Hoenes. "And that's too bad because they really have some outstanding players over there. I could have used them."

Hoenes is preparing to take his crew to Perrysburg, Ohio to compete in that city's annual 4th of July invitational.

"It's the first time we're making the trip, and I really look forward to see what they have."

Before the Glenn skipper returned to his chores, he did pose a question. Maybe our coaches can provide the answer.

"What happened," he asked, "to our All-Area baseball team?"

That's a good question. Have most of our prep coaches skipped town? After trying to contact them these past two weeks, we're right where we started from — the beginning — I've all but given up.

"If you can't get the coaches together," Hoenes asked, "is there a possibility of selecting the team in September when the kids get back."

"It would be a good way to kick off the football season," Hoenes said.

Don't think the football coaches will like us infringing upon their territorial space.

What do you think, folks?

Also, the annual City Golf Championships, usually held the last week in July, appears to be in jeopardy. Area golf courses are booked solid.

Oh, what I could do with an emerald-green pasture — even the one at Fellows Creek — to satisfy the numerous calls.

Bill Hawley, Bill Whitworth, where are you?

Studio upset by Shell

Although they got off to a slow start this season, no one is counting Johnny's Shell out of the Westland Women's Class A slo-pitch softball title race.

Johnny's, with two losses on its record, came up with a sterling performance to hand previously undefeated Studio Lounge its first setback of the year, 6-1.

Studio's defeat was the first in seven starts for the Westland powerhouse.

Johnny's got on the scoreboard with one run in the third inning, but Studio tied it up in its sixth. In that inning Johnny's scored what proved to be the decisive run.

Winning pitcher Sue Chopp gave up nine hits, including a pair of singles to Wendy Reynolds and Nancy Bauman. Loser Maureen Schaunn was tagged for a run-scoring triple by Karen Austin, while Margaret Stevens and Ann Kolnitsy also singled off of her.

In other Class A games, J & D Auto Roadrunners chalked up their third victory at the expense of winless Alberta Thomas 11-3 as winner Judy Cousineau scattered nine hits, including a double and single to Cindy Lillis.

J & D's Rita Woods laced three singles. Teammates Melanie Kozorsky and Liz Owczarzak split four hits between them.

Over in Class B, undefeated Token Lounge stretched its winning streak to seven games as it crushed Rowe Electric 18-1. Token's June Evans had a nine-hitter, giving up three hits to Brenda Johnson, who tripped, and Chele Lavalee-Kosla, who belted three singles.

Loser Sharon Vreeland had her problems with Cathy Jackery who missed hitting for the cycle when she failed to get a triple. Jackery's homer, double and pair of singles produced four runs. Barb Shaw picked up three hits, including a triple, while Annie Goll had a single and double.

'A' surprise in Romulus

Joni's jolts Nemo's, 13-10

Nothing like beating an undefeated, first place team.

That's what unheralded Joni's Hangar did last week. It hung a loss on Capt. Nemo's previously untarnished record, beating the Romulus men's Class A slo-pitch leader 13-10.

The loss cut Nemo's streak at 10, but it had no effect upon the league-leader's first place status. Nemo's 10-1 record gives it a three-game cushion over Joni's and Bingamen's who are 7-4 on the year.

Winning pitcher Dick Deck helped his cause with a two-run homer.

In other action, Bingamen remained in the race with a 16-12 victory over Bates & Sons as Vaughn Holbrook and Tim Abramski each drilled homers.

Michigan Contractor and Hal Market staged a thriller when they met and the contractors pulled it out 10-9 thanks to a 9-run spurt in the late innings.

Larry Chesno's three-run homer capped the rally. Rick Brite doubled and clouted a homer for the losers. Belleville Die scored eight times in the first inning and went on to beat Michigan Bell 15-9 as Talbert, Bilbrey and Summerfield each had three hits for the winners Rick Prestia's two roundtrippers provided the losers with most of their runs.

In the meantime, APA continued to hold down first place in the women's Class A division as it chalked up its 11th victory in 12 starts at the expense of Mr. Roberts 13-5. The league-leaders also posted a rare shutout, 15-0, over Bilmar's as G. Casey tossed a two-hitter.

Suburban Oil continued its excellent play as it upset Mr. Robert's 11-1.

Progressive Club scored four runs on singles by Candy Griffin, Donna Jernigan and triples by Brenda Goodman and Jan Hammerschmidt to earn a 9-4 victory Suburban Oil.

In what proved to be the first shutout the league witnessed this season, Capt. Nemo rattled Morgan Collision 6-0 as winning pitcher Debbie McBride pitched a 4-hitter.

Karen and Linda Weber each collected three hits as Little Caesar's trounced Bilmar's 18-1 in the only other game.

Rocco's is 'the class' of Westland 'C' League

Rocco's remained the 'team to beat' in Westland's Class C Green Division.

Coming from behind, the undefeated Green Division pacesetters knocked off second-place County Mounties 9-3 to stretch their winning streak to seven games.

Gordie Appie and Paul Posluszny each collected three hits and Mark Koss connected for a single and double off of losing hurler, Barry Conley. Winner Tom Traub gave up five hits, including a triple to Jeff Chrley.

Meantime, Fiesta Lanes kept in the race and tied for second place with a 11-1 victory over M & R Collision. Tony Kierschke scattered seven hits, including a double and a pair of singles to Mike Croll, to chalk up the victory. He missed a shutout when M & R put its only run on the scoreboard in the fifth inning.

Fiesta got to loser Jeff Combs early. They scored six runs in the opening inning then coasted to an easy triumph as Pat Ritter rapped four singles and Gary Lubinsky and Jeff Leonard each checked in with two singles.

The Outlaws came up with a 10-1 victory over the Wrecking Crew to post their second win in seven starts as winner Harry Naughton tossed a seven-hitter. Bud Somerville laced two singles, Chris Lowe connected for a double and triple while Harry Naughton drilled a run-scoring triple for the winners.

Naughton drilled a run-scoring triple for the winners.

The Outlaws came up with a 10-1 victory over the Wrecking Crew to post their second win in seven starts as winner Harry Naughton tossed a seven-hitter. Bud Somerville laced two singles, Chris Lowe connected for a double and triple while Harry Naughton drilled a run-scoring triple for the winners.

Jay Thibault's single and double led the losers, who have won only one of their seven starts this season.

In other Green Division action, McCurdy Optical broke a 2-all first inning tie with five runs in the second and went on to beat Century 21, 12-6. Mike Burns was the winning pitcher as he twirled a 12-hitter.

Joe Arhini, Dan O'Brien, Dave Gillies each collected two hits off of Burns, while loser Chuck Norwood served up an over-the-fence homer and single to Joe Warren. Jim Matthews also homered and Don Miller carded three hits for the winners.

Over in the Blue Division, Swain Industries and Westland Party, each with 5-1 records, are deadlocked in first place. Westland Party missed an opportunity to take command when a rally felt short against Silverman's Warriors.

The Warriors put a run on the board in the seventh inning that stood up as the decisive run. Westland Party came up with three runs in that inning, but it wasn't enough.

Brian Parrish got credit for the victory, while Bill Fuller took the loss.

Chuck Ruthig smacked a triple, two singles and knocked in three runs for the winners while Don Dummouchelle and Larry Mc-

Triple softball crown

Winning 31 of their 35 games over the past three seasons, and posting a near-perfect 11-1 won-lost record this year, the Footprints retained the Westland Youth Athletic Association Central West Division Championship and the city crown for the third successive year. Members of the championship team (first row, from left) are: Vanessa Cook, Coleen McCusker, Wendy Sheldon, Cheryl

Westland Class A leader is put on the spot

First Edition loses a thriller, 10-9; remains in lead

Although they have a three-game cushion atop of the Westland Class A Men's slo-pitch softball league, First Edition learned last week it can't afford to relax.

Doing the teaching was runner-up, Jamie's, which scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth, then hung on to hand the league-leader its second loss, 10-9, in 12 starts.

Jamie's is 8-5 on the season — good for a two-way tie for second place.

Bob Hood, who gave up 12 hits, including a pair of singles to Dave Conlin, and a triple and a couple of singles to Charlie Petrillo, was the winning pitcher. Tom Wilmot drilled a run-scoring single for the losers.

Ed Kritch, Perry Pappas and Tim Abramski led the hitting assault on loser Dennis Kesik who was tagged for 14 hits. Kritch and Pappas each had a single and double which paved the way to two RBIs, while Tim Abramski hammered two singles for two RBIs.

Jamie's managed to hold off an upset-minded Dearborn Real Estate 21-19 as Hood and losing pitcher Mike McGill were generous on the mound — each gave up 26 hits.

Jack Westerland proved he hasn't lost his touch at the plate as he laced three over-the-fence homers and drove in five RBIs. Teammate Chris Murphy collected a pair of round-trippers and two singles while Dick Saylor pounded out four hits and four RBIs for the winners.

Hood however couldn't get Steve Wilson out. Wilson latched on to five hits and drove in two runs for the losers. Karl Betke and Jeff Carter split three hits, one of Carter's going the distance.

Jock Shop rallied for three runs in each of the last two innings but it wasn't enough to stop First Edition which claimed a 14-11 victory over their rivals.

Kesik, the winner, was tagged for 20 hits, four of those by Dave Wyrabiewicz who drove in two runs. Steve Hodgkins got a triple and two singles, and John Lee blasted three singles for the losers.

Steve Patterson was charged with the loss. Tim Kelly paced the winners with an over-the-fence and four RBIs. Charlie Petrillo had a pair of singles and a double, while Wilmot checked in with three singles.

The league-leaders didn't have any problems with Joe Thomas, however. First Edition erupted for nine runs in the second inning, collected seven more in the seventh en route to a 25-6 victory over Thomas's. Tim Kelly and Bob Hope each blasted one out of the park.

Hope finished up with four hits, including two doubles and three RBIs. Kelly also chased home four runs and had two singles.

Barry Anderson got to loser Gary Bowman for four hits, a double and three singles.

Scott Brown, who carded three hits, and Gary Knapp, who doubled off of winner Tim Kelly, led the losers.

In other Class A action, Jamie's claimed a 21-5 abbreviated (time limit) game over the Disciples as winning pitcher Hood limited the losers to eight hits.

Ron Staples drilled a homer and single for the losers.

John Nibert, Jerry Detter and Chuck Copeland each homered off of losing hurler Bill Disch.

In one of the better played games of the week, Joe Thomas edged the Jock Shop 9-7 as each team collected 15 hits. Thomas staged a last of the seventh two-run rally to shake the victory loose. A. J. Vaughn picked up three hits, including a triple, while mates Jerry Holbrooke and

The annual Pitch-Hit-and Run baseball competitions for boys and girls 8 through 13 years old will be held July 12 beginning at 9 a.m. at the Central City Park, 36651 Ford Road in Westland.

If there is rain, the competition will be staged on July 14.

The Pitch-Hit-and Run local competitions winners will advance to district, regional and eventually national competitions. The national winners will compete during the 1980 World Series.

Each competitor will receive a certificate, and there is no entry fee. Telephone 722-7620 for more information.

Women's softball

Century 21 grabs lead in Class B

At the midway mark, Jeanne Mitchell's Gems from Century 21 have the lead in the women's Class A softball league in Westland.

But the league-leaders received a scare in their last outing. Trailing 4-0, they managed to put out a thriller 6-4 over arch-rivals, Char's Ceramics.

Char's Ceramics led off the scoring in the second inning with three runs on hits by Lori Ann Churches, Colleen Dittmar, and Jody Santoro. They added one more run in the third inning on hits by Donna Reed and Lori Ann Churches.

The Gems held them scoreless for the rest of the game and took over the scoring in their part of the third inning.

Denise Robel got on base with a hit and Marisa Dore became a runner with a fielder's choice. After one batter later, Karin Phillips cleared the bases with a home run to right centerfield.

The score was then 4-3, with Char's Ceramics in the lead. The fourth inning went scoreless for the Gems and then in the fifth it happened again.

After the first batter flew out, Marisa Dore got a hit, Nancy Gravino walked and Karin Phillips was the next batter. She again cleared the bases with another home run to right centerfield.

The score was 6-4 in favor of the Gems and that was the way it stayed. Char's Ceramics put on another scoring bid in their part of the fifth inning when they had bases loaded with no outs but the Gems kept them from scoring and held them to only one base runner in the last two innings for an exciting victory.

The Gems now have a 5 and 2 record.

Teams chase Rocco's for Westland 'C' title

Connell each had two hits for the winners.

Bob Mijal singled and tripled for the losers. Mike Earl and Mike Cullity each checked in with a couple of hits.

Over in the Community Organizational league, WAOA-Alberta Thomas remains the team to catch. The WAOA contingent has amassed a 6-1 record, good for first place and two wins more than Paul's Sports.

Winner Dave Wilkins pitched three scoreless inning and scattered eight hits to chalk up the victory. Of those eight, Bruce Thompson drilled a homer, while Kevin McConnell had two singles.

Bob Alves was tagged with the loss as he delivered 13 hits, three each to Dave Pallister and Marty Blevins. Mike Eves got a single and double. Westland Hockey turned back the Dad's Club 12-9 in the only other Community Organizational game. The dads rallied for four runs in the last inning off of winner Randy Griffin who lobbed a 12-hitter.

Tim Kolnitys drilled a homer, singled and drove in two runs for the losers. Teammates Mike Paz and Mark Sigler each had a couple of hits.

Loser Norm Swope had his troubles with Stan Pintac, Don Middean and Dan Cronan who each checked in with three hits.

Over in the Red Division,

Newburgh learned early that it was not match for John's 7-11. John's scored in each inning to destroy their rivals 25-2. Bob Bray led the assault on loser Don Rohn as he drove in four runs with a round-tripper, double, and a pair of singles. Sam VarnHagen collected three hits, and Mark Bjerk had a couple of triples and a single.

League-leading Red Division's Jake Lounge batted around twice in the fifth and scored 12 times as they humbled Tri-Data 14-8 for their sixth win in seven starts.

Kyle Fitzgerald socked a single, double and triple, while Benny Maggard got a pair of hits and Ron Hayes singled and doubled off of loser Jerry Fluery.

Winner Chappy Reynolds gave up four hits to Tom MacLeod, while Tim Perry drilled a double and two singles and Bill Kasperak turned in with three hits.

Golf-A-Tron hung on to third place with a narrow 5-4 victory over Emergency Room Lounge. Scoring twice in the bottom of the sixth, the winners then turned to winning pitcher Rick Powell who shut out his rivals the rest of the way.

Chet Pickens chipped in three of the 10 hits off of loser Paul Cambell, while Chris Drake homered and singled for the winners. John Temple had three hits and Bob Herge and John Bullard split two hits for the losers.

Shell upsets league-leading Studio Lounge, 6-1

first inning, Chais Ceramics went on to hand Rocco's its first loss of the campaign, 9-7. That ousted the loser from the top of the standings. Chais backed winning pitcher Ann Church with a tie-breaking run in the fourth and scored two insurance runs in the fifth.

Doris Madar was the loser. She served up 18 hits, including three to Eddie Bostwick, Judy Santoro and Linda Glass. Sue Kholmman, who clouted two singles and scored twice led the losers.

Westland Lock & Key exploded for 11 runs in the third inning to break open a close 5-4 game and win a 21-4 game called because of the time limit rule.

Jan Crawford drilled a triple and two singles and drove in three runs, while Judy Griwicki wound up with three singles and Pat Rize socked a pair of hits for the winners who saw winning hurler Crawford toss a seven-hitter.

Pressure is on Westland Class 'A' leader

Gary Bowman each clouted homers off of loser Tom Tompkins.

Bowman, the winner, gave up four hits to Dennis Finrock, and three hits to Tom Battertone.

Jock Shop belted losing pitcher Tim Kennedy for 29 hits en route to an easy 24-9 victory over Dearborn Real Estate. The loser got 16 hits off of winner Tompkins, but apparently couldn't get them with men aboard. Lee and Wyrabkewicz each stroked four hits, one of Lee's hits landed over the fence. Finrock contributed three hits, including a triple.

In the only other game, Dearborn Real Estate buried the Disciples 18-1 as pitcher Mike McGill twirled a five-hitter. Ron Evans and Don Jarret split four of those hits.

Steve Wilson and Chuck Truskowski each collected three hits with Truskowski lacing a pair of two-baggers. Karl Betke singled and doubled for the winners.

potpourri

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

There are many nice aspects to the job of gathering items for a local paper; the best being, probably, face-to-face contact with those interested enough to share their news.

What really puts the glow in an otherwise ordinary Thursday, though, is the person who comes in literally "beaming" with his or her bit of information.

It's always great fun to have a new daddy pop in on us "wondering" if we'd "tell the world" about his new son or daughter who is absolutely "the" most beautiful baby ANYone has ever seen.

And, too, what pleasure we take when a young couple stops by to fill out their engagement announcement and we pick up the vibes that these two really ARE meant for each other.

We recently got a mid-morning boost when a lovely young gal dropped in with the information for her upcoming wedding. There was such a glow about her and such a happy lilt in her voice that we HAD to take the time to inquire further into her plans. Her bubbly enthusiasm about each and every phase of the pending festivities really made our day. That, plus the fact that she was most deeply appreciative and loving toward her parents. She really brightened that eight hours for us; especially so, I think, since it was such a contrast to a few weeks before.

We'd done a wedding for a local pair and the following week they were in to pick up their picture and a few extra copies of the paper. And there was not a kind word between the two -- married a mere WEEK and they already appeared to dislike each other intensely!

We also find ourselves somewhat bewildered when a young bride-to-be hands us the filled-out questionnaire and leaves out a lot of pertinent information such as the name of the bridegroom's parents (she doesn't know) or where her fiancé attended school (she never asked.) And these two people are getting married! It's an interesting and sometimes perplexing profession but we DO get those periodic enthusiasts who rekindle and restore one's faith in people.

If Benjamin Franklin had his way, our national emblem wouldn't be an eagle -- but a turkey! It's a much respectable bird," Ben said, "and a true American native."

Then how did this "American native" acquire an Eastern name? It happened when early French explorers discovered the unfamiliar fowl among the Brazilian Indians. Puzzled by these strange birds, they called them "Jesuits" -- thinking they must be a gift from the Fathers!

When this proved unfounded, the explorers deduced that since most unusual things seemed to originate in the mysterious East, these birds must have, too. So they called them "L'Indies" or "turkeys", and carried them back to Europe as prize trophies. (Actually, the guess was right on target -- for the birds had somehow made their way around the globe long centuries before.)

So welcome did "turkeys" become on European dining tables that famed gourmet Brillat-Savarin later lauded them as "One of the prettiest presents the Old World received from the New."

Woe is me! A TV watcher I am not. BUT I did find myself tuning into a half-hour of "Hollywood Squares" (as you know by now) at whatever time of day those network officials deemed watchable. But, alas, now the bigwigs have decided that another morning talk show is what the American housewife wants, so... farewell to the Squares and future jottings of those things you might like to know.

Fortunately, I still have a bit of backlog to share with you so for today, here are the topics for a lull in the conversation...

Thomas Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence gave us the name the "United States of America" (and this should have been in last week's issue to coincide with our Fourth of July celebration.)

Yes, you're right! Beds in igloos ARE made of ice.

According to "This is Your Body", there are 656 muscles in the human body.

An island in the Pacific, Takuhea, considers it customary for a fellow to show his affection by removing his girlfriend's eyelashes with his teeth. (Ooo - that smarts!)

Three out of four inmates in jails at any given time have been there before.

Here's a recipe we tried at our house recently -- one that won first prize in a Better Homes and Gardens contest -- and, 'tain't bad, folks. Simplicity itself, it's one that can be put together in mere minutes.

EASY STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

2 cups buttermilk
1 1/2 cups strawberry jam

Stir buttermilk into jam. Pour into refrigerator tray; freeze until firm. Cut up frozen mixture and place in chilled mixer bowl. Whip with an electric mixer until fluffy. Return to tray; cover and freeze again. Makes about 1 quart. It's more of a sherbet than a cream so don't expect the smoothness of the "real thing".

I had a phone call at the office last week requesting that I please, just once more, run the directions on how to wash plastic shower curtains.

Since it's just about the simplest method and one that guarantees spanking clean results, I was only too glad to dig it out of that shoe box file under the tab reading "helpful hints."

Put shower curtains in washing machine. Fill with hot water. Add two bath towels (and this is a MUST; it won't work otherwise) and one-third cup each of detergent, bleach and ammonia. Run through entire cycle. Rinse in plain hot water to which has been added at least one cup of vinegar. You'll be pleased to rehang your curtains and the shower's as good a place as any of them to dry.

THE BOTTOM LINE: It has been said that you must swallow a toad before breakfast in order to be sure of experiencing nothing more distasteful before bedtime.

Altar date set

The approaching marriage of their daughter, Victoria Jean White, to Glenndon Harold Helms is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Gil White Jr. of 10015 Romaine, Romulus. A graduate of Aquinas High School in Southgate, the bride-to-be attended Henry Ford Community College and is now working for Zantop International Airlines in Ypsilanti. Her fiancé, a Romulus High School graduate, resides at 43290 I-94 Service Dr., Belleville. The son of Mrs. Gwinda Bland of Corral Inn, Highway 25, Advance, Mo., he currently is employed at Dadson's Electric in Romulus. The couple have set a July 12 altar date.

Send us your wedding information

Want to share that "special day" with those who are unable to be present in person for your wedding ceremony? We'll write the details of your wedding in story form for you -- and at no charge -- if you'll simply follow a few guidelines.

The Belleville Enterprise and The Romulus Roman offer bridal questionnaires for you to fill out as well as engagement forms for announcing the "start of it all." These forms include all the pertinent questions involved with your marriage or betrothal.

Forms may be picked up at our office, 116 Fourth St., Belleville (we're in the old Township Hall, side entrance) anytime during the week between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

We will also mail forms if a telephone request is made. Call Lee Smith, Suburban Living Editor, at 697-9191.

Brandy makes debut

"Brandy Renee" is the title given the new daughter born June 13 to Al and Diane Sullivan of 1320 Ridge, Lot B-15, Ypsilanti. Putting in her appearance at 10:04 a.m., the infant weighed 8 lbs., 9 1/2 ozs. on her arrival at Wayne County General Hospital.

The couple's first child, she is the granddaughter of John and Joan Martin of Romulus and Fred and Martha Sullivan of New Boston. Great-grandmother honors go to Mrs. Ada Martin of Fairfield, Ohio.

The new mother is the former Diane Martin.

Out-of-state guests making summer visits

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Major and Mrs. Samuel Emerson with their two children, Matthew and Sarah, from Fort Ord, Calif. have been guests this past week of Mrs. Emerson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reeves of Livonia, and his parents, Mayor and Mrs. Justin Emerson of Madelon Street.

and Mrs. Ray Frigard, sons, Eric and Lance. They were enroute to their home near Minneapolis, Minn. after having spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bird at Annapolis, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Henderson from Chillicothe, Ill. have been guests this past week at the home of the former's brother and wife, the Wilmer Hendersons of Belleville Road.

Janet Tucholski of Chandler, Ariz. arrived June 21 to spend some time with her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton of Bedell Street.

Mrs. Henry Potter of Liberty Street, son Morton of Plymouth, and his son Morton Authur of Wayne, were among members of the family who attended the celebration of the 60th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Potter's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin of Flushing, on June 22. The 1:30 o'clock dinner held at the Plush Ponia in Flushing was hosted by the honored guest's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stewart of Pontiac.

Guests this past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frigard of Church Street were their son and wife, Mr.

80 Artley descendants together for reunion

The 13th annual reunion of the Fred Artley family was held June 21 at the home of John and Jane Rockwell on Potter Drive with 80 members of the family present. A pot luck dinner was enjoyed at 6 p.m. by members coming from Litchfield, Ohio, Kawkawlin, Owosso, Flat Rock, Carleton, New Boston, Westland, Northville, Ypsilanti, Saline and Belleville. Also present was a guest, a young man from Germany, a friend of Ken Smith.

Entertainment for both adults and children was planned by Ed and Ione Artley and their two children, Greg and Mary, of Northville.

During a short business meeting the following officers were elected for the next year: Jim Webber of Ypsilanti, president; Mildred Artley of Belleville, secretary; and Cora Bradshaw of Belleville, treasurer.

The oldest member present was 86-year-old Frank Webber of Canton; the youngest present was Corey Ann, 6-months-old daughter of Wendy and Dan Nieland of Owosso. The oldest Artley was Clyde Artley, 76 years, of Flat Rock.

During the year there had been one death, Hazel Artley Webber of Canton, and two births, Corey Ann Nieland, great-granddaughter of Cora Bradshaw, and Sarah Marie Balfour of Plymouth, great-granddaughter of Clyde Artley.

Next year's reunion will be held at the home of the Jim Webbers of Ypsilanti.

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT S. BECK

Garden reception follows Beck-Sienko nuptial rite

The Belleville United Presbyterian Church was reserved June 14 for the afternoon wedding of Terri Ann Sienko and Scott Sterrett Beck, both of Belleville. Double ring vows were exchanged before The Rev. Robert McCreight and some 140 relatives and friends.

Parents of the young couple, who honeymooned enroute to their new home in Los Angeles, Calif., are Edward and Donna Sienko of 140 S. Edgemont St., Belleville, and Jim and Annie Beck of 11194 Borgman, Belleville.

Organist for the five o'clock ceremony was a close friend, Terri Gamble of Ypsilanti.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, the bride appeared in a toe-touching chiffon gown featuring a tucked illusion neckline styled with a V-shaped capelet bodice and high lace collar. Brussels lace formed the little cap sleeves and also was used to border the finger-tip illusion veil.

Completing her bridal finery was a bouquet of silk white orchids and roses, blue rosebuds and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Sandra Sienko of Belleville. Her pale blue seleta knit frock was designed with a spaghetti strap bodice topped by a short jacket which matched the pleating in the skirt. She tucked blue flowers in her hair and carried a silk arrangement of white roses, pale blue azaleas and baby's breath.

Attendants in identical outfits were Mrs. Brian (Nancy) Shephard of Belleville, a cousin of the bride, and Sheree Vincent of Canton.

The bridegroom asked Tom Russell of Canton to be best man. Serving as ushers were Todd Beck of Belleville and Michael Beck of Youngstown, Ohio, brothers of the bridegroom.

An outdoor reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony with some 140 guests attending. Mrs. Sienko wore for her daughter's wedding a sleeveless blue formal gown with a long-sleeved companion jacket. Silk flowers complimented her outfit and the pale blue gown which the bridegroom's mother selected for the occasion.

Host and hostess at the reception were the bride's brother, Mark Sienko, and Pamela Hinkley of Ann Arbor. Mary Ostrowski took charge of registering the guests and her sister, Angela Ostrowski, cut the wedding cake.

Both Terri and Scott graduated from Belleville High School in 1976. The bride attended Eastern Michigan University and prior to her marriage was employed at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Southern California's School of Architecture and is now affiliated with Gin Wong Associates in Los Angeles.

The bridegroom's parents entertained at the rehearsal dinner at their home on Borgman Street.

Autumn wedding planned

An October 18 altar date has been selected by Carol Elaine Ruff of 454 Greentree, Milan, and William Allen Lockrey of 7069 Ridgedale Lane, Lambertville. Their engagement and altar date are announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ruff of 42626 E. Huron River Dr., Belleville. A 1972 graduate of Belleville High School, Miss Ruff earned her bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University in 1976 and her master's there in 1980. Affiliated with Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Kappa Phi and Mortar Board honoraries, she currently is teaching in the Milan Area Schools. Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lockrey of Lambertville, is a 1970 alumnus of Bedford High School who served with the U.S. Army from 1972-74. He holds a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University and is now employed at Michigan Gas Utilities in Monroe.

TOPS members hold fashion show

Belleville TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) MI-380 recently held a summer fashion show under the direction of program director, Gloria Gardner. Members of the club were participants and chose outfits to model which were to point out the most becoming styles to wear in sports and chores.

Marilyn Holzschu wore her favorite jogging outfit and pointed out the need for special shoes to protect the feet from damage.

Marjorie Hagerman wore proper attire for racquetball, a popular new sport about town. Gloria Gardner chose clothing for gardening and lawn work.

Suitable office apparel was worn by Mary Orstius who spends many of her summer days indoors. Edna Mae Gregory and Roxie Harrell modeled outfits suitable for warm weather wear in school; Mrs.

Gregory as the classroom teacher and Mrs. Harrell as the supervisor of the elementary school children.

Barbara Griffiths, an office worker herself, donned a proper ensemble for a job interview while Donald Griffiths, a pre-teen member, showed what the well-dressed Cub Scout wears to his pack meeting.

Also appearing were Jane Ward in the correct dress for attending church services and Marion Timmerman in a cool sun dress, the style regularly seen at club meetings during the summer months.

Bringing the show to a finale were Shery F. Smith in summer dance attire and Marlene Spitz in a white frock for attendance at a formal wedding.

Narrators for the show were Marilyn Holzschu and Edna Mae Gregory. Outfits modeled belonged to the members wearing them and each was proud to show off her progress under the TOPS plan.

Members not only take off weight but encourage each other to eat correctly and to keep their weight at the correct poundage for their particular frame and build as determined by each one's own doctor.

For further information about TOPS, call Barbara Griffiths at 461-1090.

Reading Club opens July 7 at Romulus Public Library

The Summer Reading Club, which is open to all children of reading age, will begin July 7 at the Romulus Public Library at 11121 Wayne Road. Activities will conclude Aug. 15 with a party at the library at which prizes will be awarded.

Wayne Wesleyan Church is scene of afternoon vows

Arrangements of white mums and orange daisies graced the altar of the Wayne Wesleyan Church as Carmen Ann Newland and James Edward Terry exchanged nuptial vows and wedding bands on May 31.

The four o'clock ceremony, read by The Rev. Richard R. Dean, joined in marriage the daughter of Blaine and Ann Newland of 34824 Lynn Dr., Romulus, and the son of Rupert and Phyllis Terry of 7158 Dodge, Romulus.

Some 100 assembled guests saw Carmen approach the altar with her father. For her wedding day she donned a traditional white gown of Chantilly lace over satin, the little fitted bodice being designed with a Queen Ann collar and full sleeves ending in deep cuffs.

The hoop-skirted dress was complimented by a silk illusion veil secured by a small lace cap. A bouquet of white carnations and orange sage completed her ensemble.

As her cousin's only attendant, Billie Gibson of Romulus wore a pale orange summer frock with white carnations and a Talisman rose making up her headpiece. The same flowers were repeated in her bouquet.

Albert Sobolewski of Belleville was asked to be best man. Ushers were Blaine Newland Jr. and David Terry, brothers of the bridal pair.

Pine Creek Country Club in Belleville was reserved for the reception which followed. Mrs. Newland greeted the 150 guests in a pale orange formal-length gown to which she pinned her corsage of orange-tipped white carnations. A similar corsage in blue and white accented the pale blue floor-length gown which the bridegroom's mother wore for the occasion.

The young couple, graduates of Romulus High School, are now making their home at 34824 Lynn Dr., Romulus.

The bride is attending Wayne County Community College and her husband is employed at the Ecorse Machine Shop in Ecorse.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES E. TERRY

Newcomers on the scene...

Scott and Joyce Silvenis of Mc Henry, Ill. are announcing the arrival of a son, Jason Thomas, in Woodstock, Ill. on May 24. The new heir weighed in at 9 lbs., 2 ozs. and measured 21 1/2 inches. He is the new brother of 4-year-old Laura Silvenis.

The proud grandparents, all of Belleville, are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Silvenis and Mr. and Mrs. Park E. Gregory. One of the children's two great-grandmothers, Mrs. Jeanette Wargo, is also a Belleville resident while the other, Mrs. Chloe R. Bradley, makes her home in Jackson.

The Stanley Silvenises recently returned from a 10-day trip to Illinois to see the new baby whom their two little granddaughters are proudly showing off these early summer days.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin of Harbour Heights, Fla. are the proud parents of a baby girl, Stacey Annette, who made her debut June 1.

The 7 lb., 14 oz. infant is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Bartley of Romulus and Mrs. and Mrs. Lawrence Martin of Garden City.

The new mother is the former Kathey Bartley of Romulus.

The word is, "It's a boy!" for friends and relatives of Valentino and Donna Guajardo of Inkster who welcomed their first child June 4 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

Arriving at 2:06 p.m., Todd Valentino's weight was recorded at 7 lbs., 13 ozs. and his length at 21 inches.

He is the new grandson of Sol and Helen Halcomb of Westland and Mr. and Mrs. Valentino Guajardo of Detroit.

Great-grandmothers include a Romulus resident, Mrs. Dora Halcomb, and Mrs. Sally Naillon of West Virginia.

The new mother is the former Donna Halcomb.

MR. AND MRS. MARK MANNING

Manning, Balestrieri vows repeated in lawn ceremony

An afternoon ceremony conducted by The Rev. Jay White of Milan joined in marriage Ann Marie Balestrieri and Mark Manning, both of Belleville. The lawn of the bride's parents home at 45105 Paris Drive and a flowered trellis provided the setting for the five o'clock rite.

Tony and Peggy Balestrieri and Roy and Margaret Manning are parents of the young couple who exchanged double ring vows before some 170 assembled relatives and friends on June 14.

Music was played by Sue Preece on the flute and Chester Preece on guitar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white organza fashioned with a lace ruffled Queen Ann neckline and full sheer sleeves. The long, full skirt, also accented with lace, was worn over a hoop.

A lace crescent headpiece secured the bride's fingertip veil of silk illusion trimmed in lace and a bouquet of white silk carnations, roses and baby's breath completed her outfit.

Gowns of eggshell polyester with pleated skirts and wide lace collars were worn by the trio of bridal attendants. Mrs. Chester (Peggy) Preece of Belleville was her sister's maid of honor and wore a coral hat trimmed with silk eggshell flowers. Her bouquet of silk flowers was comprised of coral daisies, carnations and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids in apricot hats, carrying apricot-colored bouquets, were two more sisters, Annette O'Harris and Juli Balestrieri, both of Belleville.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Larry Ford of Hampton, Fla. The corps of ushers included Mike Manning, Dennis Manning and Tony Balestrieri, all brothers of the bridal couple.

At the reception, which followed at the Romulus Progressive Club, the 200 guests were greeted by Mrs.

Balestrieri in a mauve silk gown with a chiffon overskirt and pink silk carnation corsage. A layered beige frock and pale blue silk flowers were worn by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Manning.

An employee of the Apple Tree Convalescent Home in Romulus, the bride attended Belleville High School and graduated from Huron High School. Her husband, an employee of the Firestone Tire Center in Belleville, attended Eastside High School in Gainesville, Fla.

A lasagna dinner, cooked by the bride's father, was served at the Balestrieri home following the wedding rehearsal.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH SOKOLOWSKI

Anniversary party

Former Belleville residents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sokolowski of Santa Cruz, Calif., were the honored guests at a party marking their 44th wedding anniversary June 7.

Over 25 friends and relatives attended the celebration given by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Weinkauff of Quirk Road and Mr. and Mrs. James Elias of Expressway Drive, brothers-in-law and sisters of Frances Sokolowski.

The honored pair, who have been away for 17 years, previously owned and operated a Gulf station at Belleville Road and the Expressway and until retiring recently Mr. Sokolowski was proprietor of a Marathon station in Montebello, Calif.

The Californian's daughters, Mrs. Rita Crinklaw and daughter, Samantha, and Mr. and Mrs. Denny Van Tassel and Home again, home again

Heading back to Knoxville, Tenn. early this week were the Hopkas -- Tom and Betty -- former Bellevillites who'd been here for a week-long visit with relatives and friends. Houseguests of their daughter and son-in-law, Toni and Connie Schwartz of Edgedale Drive, they were wine and dined by a number of friends throughout the area and managed children, Eric and Sonia, are also living on the West Coast.

60 years marked

Over 200 relatives and friends called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Block Sr. on Sunday, June 15, to celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary.

The couple, who reside at 29163 Eureka Rd., Romulus, were congratulated by guests who included The Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Kauffman of St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Taylor (where they were married); Romulus Mayor and Mrs. William Oakley and Congressman William Ford. A surprise visit from their granddaughter, Sally Stears Waugh of Arvada, Colo., was the highlight of the day.

Cake and coffee were served throughout the afternoon and many gifts, cards and flowers were received by the Blocks.

Hosting the party were the couple's children, Junior and Lorraine Block and Bill and Joyce Stears, all of Romulus, 12 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The alternatives to abate pollution are outlined in the Facilities Planning Study. These alternatives are denoted as follows:

1. Sanitary Sewer Alternatives
Romulus/Taylor Sanitary Sewer Evaluation Survey - The Infiltration/Inflow Analysis indicates excessive I/I into the sanitary sewers in the Romulus/Taylor Wastewater District. A Sanitary Sewer Evaluation Survey is recommended to quantify and locate the sources of I/I.

2. Onsite Wastewater Alternatives
The cost associated with this alternative is $730,000.
A section of the Trouton Drain is chemically contaminated between Van Born and Wayne roads. The alternatives examine methods of mitigating the immediate health hazard, existing in the Trouton Drain by cleaning the polluted section or enclosing the Drain.

3. Stormwater Control with Treatment Alternatives Retention Basin - Seven Basins with sedimentation, disinfection, and re-aeration. Channel improvements along the North Branch between Campbell and I-94.
Cost of Improvement $102,345,000.

NOTICE OF PUBLICATION

Notice is hereby given by the Wayne County Employment and Training Administration (WC-ETA) of its intent to modify its Master Plan and to submit for approval the Fiscal Year 1981
Annual Plan for funds provided under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) administered by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL).
The Master Plan is the on-going agreement between WC-ETA and DOL which describes administrative procedures and systems utilized by WC-ETA, programmatic goals and services, and linkages with related service delivery agents. The modification updates the labor market analysis for Fiscal Year 1981.
The Annual Plan describes the specific activities and services designed to meet the needs of targeted segments of the population who are experiencing severe handicaps in obtaining employment. Total funding requested is $23,972,000.
The 1981 Annual Plan will include the following activities and services:

CETA TITLES	PROGRAM MIX
Title IIB Work Experience	35%
Classroom Training	35%
On-the-Job Training (OJT) Services	20%
Title IIC Upgrading and Retraining	100%
Title IID Public Service Employment	100%
Title IIE-STIP Classroom Training followed by 12 weeks of OJT	100%
Title IV VETCP Work Experience	100%
YETP Career Employment Experience	15%
Classroom Training	25%
Transition Services	30%
Work Experience	25%
On-the-Job Training	5%
Summer Youth Employment Program, Work Experience	100%
Title VI Public Service Employment	100%
Title VII On-the-Job Training	100%

The proposed plans and a comparison of performance against the prior year's plan through the most recent quarter will be available for review by appointment at the Wayne County Employment and Training Administration, 440 E. Congress, Detroit, Michigan 48226. Specific inquiries regarding the plans may be made to Mr. Arthur Lewis, Director, at the above address or by telephone to (313) 224-7160.
Written comments should be submitted within 30 days of this notification addressed concurrently to the Wayne County ETA and to:

Mr. Marion Smith
Associate Regional Administrator
Employment and Training Administration
U.S. Department of Labor
230 S. Dearborn Street
Chicago, Illinois 60604

Notice of subsequent modifications to the Master Plan and the Annual Plan will not be published. However, interested groups,

What a deal: Former Vegas dealer will run Westland casino this weekend

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Playtime Coordinator

Talk about The Strip and heads turn. And, as the commercial goes, people listen.

Pat Lary of Westland worked The Strip during his 11 years as a card and crap dealer in Las Vegas, Reno and Lake Tahoe. People still ask him to detail his experiences in the world of nightlife, gambling and glitter.

This weekend he'll be operating games for much lower stakes at the Casino in the Bailey Recreation Center, one of the featured attractions of the Westland Summer Festival. The scene will be different from what Lary's accustomed to — betting will range from 50 cents to $3 with the players competing for prizes rather than greenbacks.

"Everybody likes to bet," said Lary, a graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. "At the Sahara-Tahoe I saw $100,000 winners and big losers. I wished I had worked on commission with all the money that went through my hands."

"Now people want to know what Vegas is really like," he added. "They always ask 'Is everything legal?' I tell them that the gambling is legal — the casinos have too much to risk if they were to lose their license."

Lary, along with Eva Rock, will serve as co-chairmen of the Casino, a first-time project for the Westland Festival Committee (a non-profit organization).

The 32-year-old dealer has been conducting schools to train dealers for the upcoming event. Games of Black Jack (21), Over-Under 7 (dice) and the Big 6 Wheel will be featured with Lary serving as the pit boss or overseer of the action.

Mrs. Rock, meanwhile, is a veteran of festival promotions, having been involved with the annual Westland festivities since 1976. She also worked at promoting carnivals through the PTA for several years.

"My job is mostly contacting and scheduling workers," she explained. "Generally it's been much easier to recruit volunteers for the Casino because the work is interesting. The first group that Pat taught stayed longer than we expected — they really enjoyed the class on dealing cards."

"You need that interest. It's difficult to get responses from volunteers just for the sake of helping out the city."

Due to their limited training, the volunteer dealers at the Casino will be far from professional gamesmen. The object of the gambling will be a low stakes form of enjoyment for adults who always dream of taking chances.

"It takes a good craps dealer about three years to really know his job," Lary pointed out. "There can be 40 different kinds of bets out at any one time and you have to know where all the money goes."

"I answered an ad in the newspaper back in '68 to become a dealer," he continued. (Continued on Page 5)

"There And Back"
(Epic)

Is it true that old guitarists never die, that they just fade away? If so, someone forgot to pass the news on to Jeff Beck, because "There And Back" shows no sign of even a slight fade.

As a matter of fact, Beck rocks harder here than on his last three outings combined! And of course, as is his wont these days, "There And Back" is another entirely instrumental album from Jeff.

This is not a rock & roll LP in the same sense that Beck's masterpiece, "Truth," was. But neither is it dominated by funk, as was "Blow By Blow," nor is it jazz-oriented to the extent "Wired" was. And it certainly isn't boring, which is the best way to describe the "Live" album put out in conjunction with keyboardist Jan Hammer.

Well, now we know what the LP is not. But what is it?

It is, for lack of a better definition, a rock album. Traces of jazz and funk are still present in Beck's music, but they don't dominate it anymore, thus making it his most accessible outing in years. Maybe ever.

On "Star Cycle," the album's opening cut, Jeff Beck shows why his name will always be known as one of the great rock guitarists. Putting his Les Paul through extremes tough enough to cut through glass, he runs through the entire gamut of guitar cliches with seemingly little effort, but adding the patented Beck trademark.

Where other guitarists rely upon these cliches, Beck uses them as a launching pad, expanding on them until it seems he's lost control, then, just as easily, he returns to earth only to do it once again.

His dexterity on the instrument is truly awesome.

The keyboards of Jan Hammer are present on only three of the album's eight cuts, elsewhere giving way to Tony Hymas, whose more varied approach is more than welcome.

Jeff Beck

"You Never Know" and "El Becko" are both brilliant examples of what the guitar is capable of within the framework defined by rock & roll, while the sublime subtlety of "The Final Peace" defies categorization. Bordering rock, jazz, country, and even easy-listening, Beck's fluid, scintillating playing on this cut is nothing less than beautiful. And it's beauty your ears can appreciate.

Beck rocks, McCartney helps cure insomnia

PAUL MCCARTNEY
"McCartney II"
(Columbia)

The music critics of the world have come down very, very hard on Paul for this one. But despite that—or perhaps because of it—I like it.

True, the music herein tends to be rather insignificant, and as the critics have pointed out his lyrics can get just a little too cute. Silly love songs. But what's wrong with that?

Sure, I think groups that have rather heavy-handed (political or not) statements to make through their music are fine, especially if, like the Clash and Stiff Little Fingers, they make it well. But there are times when you don't want to think, don't want to put any energy into listening. And those are the times "McCartney II" was made for.

Indeed, "Coming Up" is a good-if-not-great single, but in this context it wears thin awfully fast. But still it remains the high point of the album, mainly because it may be the only memorable number on it. My favorite is "Frozen Jap," an instrumental, but I can't even recall how it goes...I wonder why?

And even the staunchest critics of McCartney would have to admit that at least there is nothing offending on the album, no cuts so bad you want to skip them.

So you can just sit back and listen...Oh yeah! I just remembered the reason I can't recall how the songs go. It's because this record puts me to sleep. Valium of the airwaves is what it amounts to, so if like me, you suffer from insomnia, buy this album. I guarantee you'll like it.

Village's Old Time Festival features lazy summer fun

An Old Time Summer Festival is coming to Greenfield Village providing mirth, music, merriment and all the time-honored treats which made yesterday's lazy summers so much fun. The festival runs through August.

The Suwanee Park Complex, a turn-of-the-century entertainment complex typifying the manner in which people utilized their leisure times, is just one area which beckons visitors. The Ice Cream Parlor, originally installed in the Clark Drugstore of Natick, Mass. in 1870, is still operating and is thought to be the oldest existing ice cream parlor in the United States. All furniture, equipment, lighting fixtures, mirrors and paneling are original; antique soft drink dispensers from the Henry Ford Museum collection have been added.

Nearby, the Suwanee Park Arcade offers 32 machines testing strength, telling fortunes, showing flip cards, imprinting names on souvenirs, selecting prizes, playing ball games or registering weights. The machines were manufactured between 1898 and 1932. Some of them once stood in Palisades Park, New Jersey; Hershey Park, Hershey, Pennsylvania and Rocky Point Park, Warwick, Rhode Island.

The Suwanee Park Merry-Go-Round was manufactured c.1913 by the Herschell-Spillman Company of North Tonawanda, New York. It was originally used at Liberty Lake Park Resort, Spokane, Wash. Music is provided by a 1916 Wurlitzer Band Organ from Tonawanda, New York.

Suwanee Park isn't the only area affected by the spirit of the Old Time Summer Festival. Throughout Greenfield Village the sights and sounds of summers gone by continue to attract visitors.

Ben Franklin presents his famous anecdotes to enthralled groups while Stephen Foster talks of his background and sings songs from his vast repertoire in historic vignettes. Doc Bryson's Medicine Show offers a "sure-cure" Wizard Oil and a bit of theatrics. Strolling Minstrels and a Jazz Band provide musical interludes.

A Meeting With the Wright Brothers is a twenty-minute skit which mixes history and hilarity as the two brothers try to explain their inventions and accomplishments to a somewhat confused follower.

In the Riverfront Restaurant of Suwanee Park a new Riverfront Concert Saloon presents a show featuring music and songs from the turn of the century while in Town Hall, Early American Movies are available for a small additional charge. Three different silent movies with music accompaniment are offered on a rotating schedule throughout each day.

Old time transportation is also available to visitors. They can choose between the Suwanee, a stern-wheel paddle boat, a century old steam locomotive, a horse-drawn carriage ride or a ride in a sturdy model T automobile. There is a slight additional charge for rides in Greenfield Village but no additional charge for the Old Time Summer Festival events beyond regular Village admission of $4.25 for adults and $2.25 for children six through 12. There is no charge for children under six and there is a special senior citizen rate of $3.50.

Dinner theater recommended

'State of Union' deals with timely subject

By GAIL JORGENSEN
Special to Playtime

Say the word "politics," and you'll get two reactions.

First is the almost-compulsory expression of disgust. All the candidates are alike. They never keep their promises. You can't fight city hall.

But admit it — the word "politics" can bring a shiver of excitement too. Bands and banners and big cigars. Secret deals in smoke-filled rooms.

And politics are such a fascinating part of American history.

All these emotions come together for you in "State of the Union," the play currently presented by the Greenfield Village Players at the Henry Ford Museum Theater.

First of all, the play revolves around the selection of a Republican candidate for President. Obviously a pretty timely subject!

And when you step out of the theater during intermission, you step into the twilight of the old town hall and cobbled streets of Greenfield Village. Into American history. The building is even named Heritage Hall.

"Should a man compromise his principles to become President of the United States?" Possible candidate Grant Matthews must answer this question in "State of the Union."

DRAMA

The word "union" has a double meaning, however, for much of the drama centers on what Grant's strong-minded wife Mary has to say on the subject. (Yes, there was a movie with Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn.)

The comedy-satire, which won a Pulitzer prize, is set in 1947; but needless to say, you find not much in politics has changed since then.

Grant wonders how long the U.S. can stay "the only rich nation in a starving world" for example, and says it's time unions and management saw each other as "partners."

One scene is set at Detroit's Book Cadillac Hotel, and the party leader groans about "controversial" Detroit, with all its "strikes and plant closings."

Unquestioned star of the show was Mary Bremer as Mary Matthews. Her strong stage presence, particularly her unusual voice (containing a bit of Eve Arden's impertinence), gave a focus to the action that had been vaguely missing before her entrance.

Robert Mounts was immediately likeable as Grant, and showed the growing strength and independence of his character very subtly and well.

Tom Hinks had a lot of contagious charm as press agent Spike McManus, and John Roberts WAS party boss James Conover. In fact, I'm reluctant to call his a "performance" at all — it seemed so natural. He even ate in character.

And speaking of eating ...

Grant joked in the play that he ate so much chicken at state banquets, he was "growing pinfeathers." Appropriately, baked chicken is on the menu for the dinner-theater program of "State of the Union."

To make your evening really special, a candlelight dinner is served in the elegant dining room of Heritage Hall before the performance, and I strongly recommend it.

The food was plentiful and tasty — half a baked chicken, spinach salad, potato, broccoli, bread, and carrot cake for dessert. But what made the dinner really special was what can only be called old-fashioned hospitality.

There are a few small tables for two, but most of the seating is for six or eight. The staff expertly guides guests into empty places so no one need feel bashful.

You're soon chatting pleasantly with new acquaintances, something that rarely happens at regular restaurants anymore — or anywhere much for that matter. Dare I say "Grand Old Party"?

I should note that for the dinner most of the men wore sportcoats and the women simple dresses.

"State of the Union" will be presented for four more weekends — Friday and Saturday evenings, July 4 and 5, 11 and 12, 18 and 19, 25 and 26. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. and tickets are $4.

Tickets for the dinner-theater combination are $14.75, and advance reservations are required. Call 271-1620, ext. 414, for information.

Heritage Hall and the Henry Ford Museum Theater are located at the entrance to Greenfield Village in Dearborn. Parking is free.

Lose weight, stop smoking?

Hypnotherapist to give clinics in Van Buren

Even though you'd like to lose weight, do you find yourself scooping out a second helping, topping your meals with rich desserts and then sneaking snacks and goodies all too often?

Or even though you want to stop smoking — and have even tried numerous times — did you find yourself grouchy, irritable and so out of sorts that you finally gave up and lit up again?

Many who had those same problems have now lost weight and given up smoking without the pain that usually accompanies dieting or nicotine withdrawal — thanks to the help of Hypnotherapist James H. Hoke.

Van Buren and Belleville area residents will have the same opportunity when the Van Buren Township Parks and Recreation Department sponsors his self-psych stop smoking and weight control clinics next Wednesday.

Participants in all clinics will relax during three hypnotic inductions during which Hoke gives suggestions to their subconscious minds. The clinics are complete with literature and cassette tapes for reinforcement of the suggestions at home.

Hoke's approach is to help people change their emotional attitudes that make them overeat or smoke too much.

"Most Americans are overweight because we're programmed to believe that no matter what the problem, food will make us feel better," Hoke said. "If you can change the way your mind feels about food, you can then change your body and be the slim person you want to be."

Hoke's weight control session also deals with overcoming stresses that cause persons to raid the refrigerator, trying to eat their problems away.

Stresses also cause smokers to continue smoking, in spite of physical harm they know they are doing to their bodies.

"The rational part of your mind shouts, 'Quit!' while the emotional part screams out for the physical and psychological lift of a cigarette," Hoke explains. "To convert yourself to a non-smoker, you must get the emotional part of your mind to agree with your intellectual desire to quit. That's how hypnosis helps."

A postcard follow-up survey indicates a success rate of two out of three people who participate in the self-psych stop smoking clinics.

Hoke's stop smoking clinic will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The fee is $30. His weight control clinic will be at 8:30 p.m. the same evening. The fee is $22.

The clinics will be at the Van Buren Township Parks and Recreation Department, 46425 Tyler Road, Belleville. To register, call 699-2001.

When his book, "I Would If I Could and I Can," is published in September, Hoke will go on a 21-day promotional tour packed with both local and national television and radio appearances in 20 different cities.

President of Self Psych, Inc., in Southfield, Hoke is certified as a hypnotist, specialist, instructor and psychotherapeutic analyst with specialized training from the American Institute of Hypnosis, the Ethical Hypnosis Training Center, the American Board and the American Psychotherapy Association.

Hypnotherapist James H. Hoke gives a suggestion to help a client make a positive life change as he will do in stop smoking and weight control clinics sponsored in Belleville by the Van Buren Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Art festivals abound in Michigan

Whether it's a small group of artists displaying their work or a community-wide effort involving hundreds of exhibitors, summer art festivals in Michigan are as commonplace as pebbles on a beach.

Most fairs or festivals have displays of ceramics, paintings, crafts, sculpting, photography and various demonstrations. Some festivals include other arts such as dance and music.

Sponsors include neighborhood groups, chambers of commerce or merchants' associations, universities, recreation departments, service organizations and more often than not, art councils.

Two of Michigan's largest art fairs are Ann Arbor's Summer Arts Festival and Wyandotte's Street Art Fair and Sidewalk Sale. These events combined should attract nearly 1,000 exhibitors and draw almost one million persons.

Some of the larger art events are listed below as compiled by the Michigan Council for the Arts. Here are the cities by alphabetical order, name, location and date of the festival:

• ALGONAC—Art Fair, City Park, Sept. 6-7.

• ALPENA—Art Show, Mich-E-Kewis Park, July 19-20.

• ANN ARBOR—Summer Arts Festival, Main Street between Huron and Williams, July 23-26.

• BIRMINGHAM — Art-in-the-Park, Shain Park, Sept. 20-21.

• CADILLAC—Festival of Arts, City Park, July 19.

• CHARLEVOIX—Waterfront Art Fair, downtown, Aug. 9.

• DETROIT—Lafayette Art Fair, Towers Shopping Plaza, Sept. 6-7 and Palmer Park Fine Arts Festival, Palmer Park Log Cabin, Aug. 2-3.

• FARMINGTON—Founders Festival and Crafters Corner, Grand River at Farmington Road, July 26.

• FENTON—Art-at-the-Center Community Center, Aug. 30-31.

• GRAND LEDGE—Island Art Fair, Island Park, July 26.

• GREENVILLE—Danish Festival Arts & Crafts Show, downtown, Aug. 15-16.

• HOLLAND—Art-in-the-Park, Centennial Park, Aug. 9.

• HOUGHTON—Copper Country Summer Arts Festival, Dee Stadium, July 12-13.

• LOWELL—Fallasburg Fall Festival, Fallasburg Park, Sept. 27-28.

• LUDINGTON—Art Fair, City Park, July 5-6.

• MACKINAC CITY—Waterfront Art Fair, Marina Park, July 19.

• MARQUETTE—Art on the Rocks, Presque Isle Park, July 25-26.

• MONTROSE—Blueberry Festival Arts & Crafts Fair, Village Park, Aug. 16-17.

• PAW PAW—Grape & Wine Festival Arts & Crafts Fair, Warner Vineyard, Sept. 20-21.

GAS SAVERS

One of the simplest ways to save gas and money is to drive your car a little less. Here are more ideas you can use to keep your foot off the gas and more money in your pocket.

Call ahead to be sure you aren't wasting gas on an unnecessary trip. On the average, a wasted trip costs you a dollar's worth of gas. Ride to work with a friend or neighbor just one day a week and you can save at least $100 worth of gas every year. For a free booklet with more easy energy-saving tips, write "Energy," Box 62, Oak Ridge, TN 37830.

Fishing Lines

Fishermen doing well, county rundown shows

Fishermen have been out in full force on lakes and rivers throughout southern Michigan and, according to reports I've received, they're doing pretty well. Here's a rundown on fishing activities, county by county:

MONROE COUNTY — Walleyes are being caught in Lake Erie north of Brest Bay around the Fermi nuclear plant towers. The best lures have been silver and gold Nugget jigs, and silver-and-red nightcrawler harnesses. Another good spot is about a mile-and-a-half straight out from Swan Creek.

Perch are hitting on minnows in 18 to 25 feet of water in Brest Bay. For best results, suspend your bait a foot or two above the bottom.

WAYNE COUNTY — Walleyes are being taken in the Detroit River south of the county bridge to Grosse Ile, and down to Horse Island. Drifting with nightcrawlers is the most productive method.

Fishermen are also having some success on sturgeon in the Detroit River straight out from Wyandotte. Try baiting a large hook with several nightcrawlers and drag it along the bottom in swift water.

Perch and white bass are hitting minnows and worms in the river between Celeron Island and Grosse Ile, and around Bob-Lo Island and Amherstberg on the Canadian side.

Fishing in the Huron River at Flat Rock is slow. However, some walleyes are being caught during the evening hours on shiner minnows. Crappies are biting very well on minnows and small, feathered jigs cast around fallen trees and rocks.

Downstream from Flat Rock, fishermen are picking up smallmouth bass and channel catfish.

The best bait is live crayfish. Early morning has been the most productive.

Springer Archery in Romulus reports that Belleville Lake fishermen are having good success

Crappies like this slabside are providing area anglers with much action. The most successful baits are small, feathered jigs in either pink, white or black, and live shiner minnows.

on walleyes around the dam and also in the Huron River directly below the dam, where crappies are also being caught. The best baits are small jigs, spinners and minnows.

Incidentally, Springer Archery is sponsoring a Carp Contest, which will run through September. It'll cost you a buck to enter, with the top prize for the largest carp taken on a bow and arrow being $75. To date, the biggest fish weighs 32 pounds and was shot at Pointe Mouille.

Also in Belleville Lake, bass fishermen are catching smallmouths on 1/8-ounce white jigs fished on the bottom in water 10 to 12 feet deep. And Gil Gillespie at Sandy's Marina told me that an angler brought in two catfish one day last week that weighed nine pounds apiece. The fish were taken on a crankbait.

There's still time to enter the open team bass tournament on Belleville Lake, which is being sponsored by Sandy's Marina. The date is Saturday, July 12, and the entry fee is $50 per team. For more information, call Gillespie at 697-1238.

WASHTENAW COUNTY — An occasional tiger muskie is being caught in Ford Lake, but fishing here is generally slow. The fish seem to show a preference for chartreuse spinnerbaits and black-and-white Snagless Sallies dressed with a pork frog. For best results, try casting into the fallen timber along the shoreline.

Many area lakes are providing good largemouth bass action. The most productive lures are spinnerbaits and plastic worms. Lakes worth trying include Whitmore, Pleasant, Four Mile, Columbia and Portage.

Tour book gives highlights

Everything you always wanted to know about southeast Michigan—and probably were never able to find in one book—is available free from the Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association.

The book highlights the spring-summer things to see and do in the 11-county region the association serves. It covers the gamut of indoor and outdoor events, festivals, fairs, cultural attractions and museums, accommodations, shopping, fine dining and the like.

Designed especially for the general traveler—but also of great value to the convention delegate—the guidebook presents in 4 color a complete description of the better known attractions, but also some of the lesser known.

"We have put together in one package one of the best information items our office has ever compiled," said Sid Baker, association president. "The guidebook is a testimonial to the excellent cooperation we have received from many tourist and travel sources."

Baker said that he believes this is going to be an important year for close-to-home travel.

"Our advance information indicates that people will be planning vacation trips within a tankful of gas from their homes.

tinued. "Until that time I had never seen a craps game."

Lary, a Westland resident, became a pit boss for his last two years in Nevada. He'll be back on the job at the Bailey Recreation Center Friday night (Casino hours will be 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 4 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday. There is no cover charge but persons must be at least 18 to play).

"There's a little more skill involved in these games than some others," declared Lary. "I myself was not very successful as a player even though I knew all about gambling."

"In Vegas you have to realize that the joint has the odds in its favor. If you keep on playing after you've won some money, you'll eventually book a loser."

Hopefully the Westland Festival Committee has booked a winner in its amateur Casino.

Walleye fishing best ever in southeast Michigan

Never in modern history has walleye (pickerel) fishing been so consistently spectacular as in southeast Michigan. Although the Lake Erie walleye boom is now well known, southeast Michigan can boast exceptional walleye fishing in its entire Great Lakes waters and connecting rivers, especially during the month of June and early July.

Ironically enough, the mercury contamination problem of some years past has been a major factor in the walleye population explosion in Lakes Erie and St. Clair. Both Canada and Michigan removed the walleye from their list of legal commercial species several years ago because of the mercury problem. This total ban on commercial netting has bolstered walleye populations over the years to the benefit of sportsfishermen.

The Michigan Department of Public Health still advises children and nursing mothers against eating the walleye from Lakes St. Clair and Erie. They advise all others to consume no more than one meal per week of walleye because of some remaining mercury found in the fish.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources in its test netting of Lake Erie waters found exceptional abundances of walleyes, plus a very healthy future outlook. A 1978 DNR post car survey indicated 281,440 walleyes were harvested in Monroe County and 62,000 in Wayne County.

Michigan has been making plantings of walleye in the Clinton River, which empties into Lake St. Clair, in hopes of establishing a walleye spawning run in those waters. This spring, test nettings revealed 28,000 walleyes entered the lower Clinton River, indicating a successful spawning run in Michigan waters is now likely established.

After spawning in the spring, walleye move out over the southeast Michigan waters system, especially migrating to the shallow waters of Lake St. Clair (Anchor Bay) and Lake Erie. As the summer progresses, the walleyes gradually move into the cooler channels of Lake St. Clair and up the St. Clair River with some moving into Lake Huron.

The Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association's Outdoor Guide provides complete information on harbors, public access points, tackle shops and campgrounds near Lakes St. Clair and Erie and the connecting rivers. For a free copy, write Travel and Tourist Association, American Center Building Suite 350, 27777 Franklin Road, Southfield 48034.

'Blues Brothers': now that's a laugh

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Playtime Coordinator

Just when it appeared as if those production line horror films would dominate the big screen forever, here comes the "Blues Brothers."

No pretentiousness, no esoteric humor ala Woody Allen. No redeeming, social value. Just the Blues Brothers and their Saturday Night Live act, a combination of humor and music guaranteed to entertain you...if you know what to expect.

Writers Dan Aykroyd, one of the illustrious to along with John Belushi) and John Landis have taken a series of visual gags, added some spectacular demolition derby scenes and left the rest up to a talented cast of comedians and musicians.

mission in operation. To do that, the Blues Brothers Band must be reunited.

Unfortunately, Aykroyd has the driving record and habits of

And for those who enjoyed "Animal House," there's even a restaurant scene with Belushi's heralded poor table manners. No food fight, however.

The supporting cast provides two elements—R & B musical accompaniment (James Brown, Cab Calloway, Ray Charles and Aretha Franklin) and comedic relief from the Brothers' fast-paced assault (Henry Gibson and Carrie Fisher).

Gibson is believable as a Nazi leader, and Fisher finally gets to look into Belushi's eyes without his trademark (dark sunglasses) in the way.

Aykroyd and Landis, who also directs this film, seem to have been more than a bit influenced by such gag groups as the Marx Brothers and the Bowery Boys. The heroes always manage to stay one step ahead of their pursuers so that they can save the day in the end.

Slapstick comedy 1980 with some entertaining singing and dancing—that's what the "Blues Brothers" is all about. Nothing more, nothing less.

And after a string of supposedly "horror epics" and films laden with social consciousness, "Blues Brothers" is a welcome relief to high browed relevance. Sit back and laugh.

"Jaws," is no comedy.

I guess it's allegedly an adventurous look at one possible reason for the disappearance of pleasure boaters off the Florida coast.

Co-producers David Brown and Richard Zanuck prove that they did not learn the basis for Jaws' success—its portrayal of horror through imagination. In "The Island," very little is left to the imagination.

Ax murders, stab-bings, shootings, garrottings and torture scenes by a nasty race of pirates. Such violence might have been good enough to sell over two million paperbacks for author Peter Benchley, but it can't save the movie version.

Neither can Michael Caine, who listlessly plays the part of a reporter who is captured and taken to an island inhabited by pirates whose descendants terrorized the seas 300 years ago. Caine at times seems about as frightened as a child with a new toy.

Why should he be, though, since the violence which dominates the story line is very predictable. And, after all, he gets to mow down those scurrious pirates in the end anyway.

It's too bad really—"The Island" has potential. With better casting, more realistic characterization and less reliance on gore for the sake of gore alone, this movie could have kept its audience on the edge of their seats much like "Jaws."

As it is, "The Island" remains nothing more than a tale of good guy meets bad guy, good guy beats bad guy.

The caption for this movie, "Just when you thought it was safe to go fishing in the Caribbean..." doesn't tell the real story. It should read, "Just when you thought it was safe to see an imaginative adventure at the movies..."

You've been properly warned.

MOVIES

It works. The plot is simple enough—two losers on a "mission from God." Forget any religious connotations, however, since there's enough four letter words to give this flick a R (restricted) rating.

Belushi, fresh from a stint in prison, and his sidekick Aykroyd must raise some money to keep an old Catholic Leon Spinks, which leads to numerous chases with the law. Guess who wins?

The auto escapades are a stunt driver's dream—shopping malls, bridges and streets will never be the same. In fact, the final sequence may rival Gene Hackman's drive in "The French Connection" for its visual impact.

Travels with Fido arranged

In this day of frequent travel, pet fanciers can only be pleased by the knowledge that they don't necessarily have to leave Fido or Smoky behind, come vacation time.

Traveling by car? You'd be surprised at the number of hotels and motels throughout the country that permit pets to bring pets.

However, many hotels and motels do not allow animals, so be sure and check this out in advance. (The National Auto Club's booklet lists such information and the AAA also has such information available.)

If you're planning a camping trip or planning to stay at a trailer park, there are directories available at your local library, specifying which campgrounds and trailer parks do permit pets.

Traveling by car or with a pet requires some planning and special consideration. Be sure your pet's records are all up to date. Advise your veterinarian as to your travel plans, so that any necessary medication be given.

Be sure and take your regular food along, but it doesn't have to cope with strange food, in addition to everything else. A water dish and fresh water are musts, of course.

Cats require particular attention in traveling. Be sure and take a litter box and liners, plus a scooper and litter, of course.

It's also a good idea to take a cat carrier along, properly identified.

Your cat may prefer to stay inside the carrier, but if you allow it to emerge from the carrier while in the car, be sure any car windows are kept only slightly open.

The Island

Michael Caine fighting off pirates?

Surely this must be some kind of sick comedy. But "The Island," brought to the screen by the writer and producers of
